Uncle Sam Providing Men and Ships to Keep Whisky Vessels From American Shores.

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, April 5.—The first units of the coast guard new prohibition navy probably will be ready to put to sea within a few weeks.
With an additional $18,000,000 available under a recent congressional appropriation, coast guards officials have drawn up detailed plans for the acquisition of some 300 large and small vessels equipped to chase rum runners away from American shores and for an enlarged personnel to man them.
The nucleus of the force will be 20 destroyers which Congress has authorized the coast guard to purchase from the navy. The present intention is to select 20 ships from the destroyer squadron now lying out of commission at Philadelphia. Coast guard officials have inspected these ships and are drawing up specifications for their reconditioning.
A date for receiving bids for taxation of patrol boats probably will be fixed within a few days. It is the hope of those in charge of the work that many of the 25 or more vessels of this type can be purchased ready built, and put into use after minor alterations. The exact specifications are yet to be announced.
The plan to provide a sufficient personnel contemplates an active recruiting campaign and graduation this fall of next year's class officers at the coast guard academy at New London. In all, nearly 5,000 additional officers and men will be required to man the fleet.

TOWN TOPICS

Special services will be held tomorrow morning when the Baraca class of the First Baptist church meets. Nineteen new members will be received and W. P. Boatwright, teacher of the class, and Dr. H. J. Langston will both speak. Tomorrow's event will terminate the recent campaign to secure new members which resulted in 19 being secured bringing the total enrollment to 91.
Major H. A. Wiseman has been appointed by J. J. Wicker, commander of the Virginia Department American Legion, as a member of the Americanization committee of the department. One appointment is made for every town and city in the State. The prime purpose of this committee is to foster the doctrine of Americanism and to assist citizens who have expressed intentions of becoming naturalized in securing their papers.
The possibility of an interesting fire story was shattered this morning in the Patton street fire station, where the record of all fires is kept. An entry of an alarm to the West End station yesterday evening at 10 o'clock indicated that a cat had caught fire at the home of Lucious Whipple on Gray street. Fireman Reed explained that in reality it was a cat which had become ignited and not the feline. No material damage was done.

RED MEN WILL HOLD POW WOW AT SCHOOLFIELD

Governor Consents to Come Here and Make Address at Special Ceremony in Honor of Dr. Garnet Johnson.

Governor E. Lee Trinkle has consented to come to Schoolfield on May 26th, for the purpose of making an address at a grand pow-wow of the Danville tribes to be staged in connection with the elevation of Dr. Garnet Johnson of this city to the post of Grand Sachem of the State. Definite announcement of the governor's favorable reply to the invitation was made this morning. E. R. Cole, president of the Danville tribes, saw the governor last night, secured his consent and telephoned the news to Clifford J. Parrott of this city.
The big meeting, which is expected to attract tribesmen from the surrounding cities and towns, will be held in the auditorium of the Baltimore avenue schoolhouse at eight o'clock. Details of the programme have not yet been worked out, but will be now that it is known that the executive will be here. There will be several local speakers.
The celebration will be consequent to the annual State convention of the Red Men which will be held at Alexandria on May 21st, at which time Dr. Johnson, who now occupies a State office secondary only to that of Great Sachem, will be elevated, following the usual custom of waiting the day after each year. Dr. Johnson will be the second Danville man to occupy this position—head of the Virginia Red Men. Parrott holding it several years ago.
In the meantime, local leaders are laying plans to make a bid for the 1925 convention in Danville. It is about six or seven years since the State order convened in Danville, on which occasion Cole Beeson, of South Carolina, made an address.

REVENUE BILL TO BE REPORTED FIRST OF WEEK

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, April 5.—Finishing touches were put on the revenue bill today by the Senate Finance Committee and a report of the measure to the Senate by next Monday or Tuesday was promised by Chairman Smoot.
Most of the miscellaneous, and excuse tax reductions made by the bill were approved last night by the committee in concluding its work on the rate schedules.
The present tax on telegraph and telephone messages, eliminated by the House, however, was restored to the bill, as were the levy on billiard and pool tables and bowling alleys. The former involved $24,000,000 in revenue annually, it was estimated and the latter about $1,050,000.
Restoration of these taxes, coupled with other changes in the bill passed by the House, leaves the measure about $17,000,000 short of raising sufficient revenue next fiscal year, Mr. Smoot declared, but he predicted this could be met through probable increases in actual receipts. The deficit does not include further losses in funds which the government would face with passage of special appropriation bills now pending and the soldier bonus bill.

CONFERENCE ON OBSERVANCE OF LAW IS OPENED

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, April 5.—The students conference on law observance and citizenship began here today with a reception at the White House and a number of addresses dealing chiefly with prohibition enforcement.
About 150 educational institutions throughout the country named students to attend the conference, which was arranged by the citizens committee of one thousand as a climax to a large number of separate meetings under graduate men and women held recently to consider the same subjects.
The conference is in charge of a group of students aided by 16 college presidents, and ten men and women interested in undergraduate affairs. Fred B. Smith, who was chairman of the general citizenship conference here last fall, was selected to preside and a number of educators, officials and members of Congress, were listed for addresses during the sessions arranged for today and tomorrow.
Law violations by students and residents of adjacent communities formed one of the main topics for study and policies relating to this and other law observance problems are to be worked out for recommendation to every college and university in America.
The Rev. Dr. John A. Ryan, dean of the Catholic University at Washington, speaking today, declared a "genuine patriotism of peace" was the outstanding need of the nation and described the "enormous propaganda" in favor of the Mellon tax plan as an attempt to mislead the masses, saying the arguments advanced for its adoption were "intellectually dishonest" and "deplorably ignorant."
Turning to the question of prohibition, he said "the wholesale violation" of these laws "indicates a deplorable lack of the most elementary feature of patriotism—respect for, and obedience to law."
"Undoubtedly," said Dr. Ryan, "there are some features of the prohibition statutes which are not binding in conscience because they are unreasonable and unjust. But the prohibition of the liquor traffic, is morally obligatory, since it has been decreed by lawfully authority, as necessary or at least useful for common good."

PROBE OF LEE'S DEPARTMENT IS IN RECESS NOW

(By The Associated Press.)
RICHMOND, Va., April 5.—Members of the special legislative committee investigating the Virginia Game and Inland Fisheries department today returned to their homes and will not meet again until April 15th, then allegations that state boats have been used for improper purposes will be heard.
The committee last night concluded its inquiry into charges that Commissioner Lee, of the department, had been extravagant in the expenditure of state funds. No evidence in connection with the charges of immorality and that he had been heard and. Before adjourning the committee instructed Senator Stubbs, of Middlesex, to supply Commissioner Lee with a bill of particulars, citing specific incidents he expected to prove. This bill, at the request of Commissioner Lee, will be kept secret until the committee again meets.
Both the commissioner and Senator Stubbs next week will begin gathering their evidence in shape for introduction.

President Requests New Corporation to Extend Loans to Growers in Northwest for Farm Di- versification.

Sons of Veterans to Re-Organize Camp Here

A movement has been started to reorganize Cabell-Graves Camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans, in this city. With that view, C. Irving Carrington, division adjutant and chief of staff, will be in Danville Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday for the purpose of calling on all sons and grandsons of Confederate soldiers and sailors who he can see in the limited time he will be in Danville, and he wishes all who will not be able to reach to call on him at the Hotel Burton from 6 to 10 p. m.
The state re-union will be held at Charlottesville on May 21, 22 and 23, and the National re-union at Memphis, Tenn., June 3, 4 and 5. It is the desire of the organization that Danville should be represented at both of these meetings.
The Cabell-Graves camp, was organized in Danville many years ago but of recent time it has not been active except on such occasions as Memorial exercises and other events associated with the confederate cause. It is expected that Mr. Carrington will visit Danville and stimulate interest in the old organization.

First Brick Laid For New City Home

The first brick of the new city home was laid yesterday, much of the material needed in constructing the one-story brick building having been assembled on the bluff. The foundations were dug several days ago and given good weather it is believed swift progress will now be made.
The new home, situated on a bluff overlooking the city, will be a two-story building, the waters from which collect in a well, has been completed and it now remains for the electric pump which will be needed to lift the water to the building to be installed. This work is to be pushed quickly as the contractor is in need of water for the building operation. Electric power wires are now being strung and power will be available by Wednesday according to present intentions. The city's line has been tapped on Union street extension and the cable spans the river along the right of way of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company.
The city home commission has not yet been approached by the county supervisors relative to any agreement between the county and the city in the matter of housing the poor. A meeting next week to consider recommendations from the county welfare board. The commission is understood to be quite receptive to a discussion of the matter in the form of a satisfactory plan might be worked out but is naturally not taking the initiative. It may be said that the commission is willing to meet the board at any time for a full discussion of this matter.
Pittsylvania is thinking seriously about building a new courthouse owing to the inadequacy of the present institution which is some distance from the county seat. Halifax county is in the same predicament and is disposed to give thought to entering an agreement with Pittsylvania whereby the indigent poor of both counties would be cared for in one institution.

Two Co-Op Cases Up at Yanceyville

(Special to The Bee.)
YANCEYVILLE, N. C., April 5.—Two of the pending "Co-op" contract cases have been taken up here at the Superior court session. In the case of T. J. Wright, a well-known farmer, of Pelham, N. C., and G. M. Wrenn, of Leesburg, the court made permanent the injunction restraining each man from disposing of his land through means other than the "pool," attorney's fees and costs were fixed in the pending suits but the amount of damages the court held, must be determined by a separate civil suit which is expected to be entered within a few days. Damages range from $500 to $1,000.
Joe Myers, a negro, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Judge Glenn, a negro, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to serve twelve months in the penitentiary. Glenn was shot to death in a rock quarry. Myers held that the shooting was an accident and there was no evidence to show any malice.

$5,079.75 Raised In Hospital Drive

Workers in the campaign to raise funds for Providence Hospital for coloreds here reported a total of $5,079.75 raised, with several teams giving no reports. The campaigners are in the field again today working hard to raise the goal of $10,000, said to be needed to clear up the debt of the institution and place it on a paying basis.
G. W. Goode, president, reported that the amount so far raised was encouraging. With $4,920.25 to be raised by Thursday night, the time of ending the campaign it is felt that this should be raised by that time.

Map Made By Columbus Found

PARIS, April 5.—A map made by Christopher Columbus has been found in the national library by M. De La Ronciere, head of the printed book department. The map, which is believed to be the original one on which Columbus discovered America, was found in the library as a Portuguese map of the sixteenth century.
The map represents the earth in the form of an island enclosed by four oceans and gives in detail the coast lines of Europe and of Africa as far as the Cape of Good Hope.

Smith who not long ago was elected chief executive of Stuart recently resigned this necessitating an election to determine his successor.
Mr. Sanford is an ex-serviceman and served in the aviation division. It is recalled that it was stationed in Scotland at the time the German fleet surrendered in the First of World War and he was in an airplane and is a man.

Fight Over Immigration Bill Is Seen

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, April 5.—The Johnson immigration bill was taken up in the House today amid indications of vigorous opposition. Although general debate on the measure is limited to ten hours under rules governing its consideration, the discussion of proposals for amendment are expected to delay vote until the latter part of next week.
The Johnson bill proposes an immigration quota of 2 per cent, based on the 1890 census, provides for examination abroad of aliens desiring to make their home in this country, and would practically bar Japan, but would not restrict the number of immigrants from Southern and Central Europe and increasing the proportion from the northern and eastern sections of that continent and has aroused considerable opposition on the same grounds. The present law fixes the quota at three per cent, on the basis of the 1910 census.
Representative Sabath, Democrat, Illinois, a member of the immigration committee, who disagrees with the measure providing for extension until December 31, 1925, of the present law, which expires June 30th, and a study of the problem in the meantime by a commission composed of two Senators, two representatives and three members appointed by the president to represent industrial, labor and agricultural interests.

Mrs. Cummins, nationally known as a writer under the name of F. T. D. Pendleton, died at a local hospital last night from the effects of a bullet near the heart. Before dying she told police she had shot herself and then passed the revolver to her husband, who shot himself through the head.
Dying instantly, health of herself and husband resulted in the compact to kill themselves, she said. The police did not discover man and wife until 12 hours after they had shot themselves. #### VIRGINIA BANK CASE TO REACH NEW PHASE MONDAY

HALL (Special to The Bee.)
HALL, Va., April 5.—Another phase of the now famous Fudge case will be seen here on Monday when Commissioner of Accounts for Halifax county, James S. Easley, will begin hearings on the question of an auditing contingent fee of $60,000. The present dispute in the state of Virginia. This is a chancery proceeding resulting from the civil suit instituted by the receiver for the bank against the institution to determine a number of debatable points. Mr. Easley said this morning that owing to the number of accounts in question it will require several sittings before it is possible to make a report. Mr. Easley will not determine the matter finally but will draw up a report as a special commissioner and will present it to Judge Barksdale who will rule on the matter. It is doubtful if the liabilities will be determined prior to Fudge's trial in the criminal court. The aggregate amount of these liabilities is $60,000. The present deposit alleged to have been made but if which there is no record and other preferential claims by other banks. A lien contest on these questions is anticipated. The taking of accounts will begin here Monday morning when evidence will be heard.
Fudge remains in a Richmond hospital which he entered a few days before his anticipated trial this being considered by Judge H. D. Gregory of Roanoke as proper cause for continuance.

FREIGHT RATES TO BE DISCUSSED HERE MONDAY

An important meeting of traffic men from all of the Chambers of Commerce in Virginia, will be held in Danville on Monday morning at ten o'clock, according to an announcement made today by Henry B. Watkins, acting secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. On that day Mason Mangum, counsel for the State Corporation Commission, will be here to lead a discussion of existing freight rates in Virginia, and it is intended to go exhaustively into this whole subject. Freight rates in Virginia are regarded as being badly out of line, and the purpose of this meeting, according to Mr. Watkins, is to see if the whole scheme of freight rates cannot be adjusted and tariff revisions made which will meet at least part of the constant complaint made by shippers.
The meeting is considered highly important from Danville's point of view. Efforts have been made in this city from time to time to secure adjustments, but the best efforts made along this line—one of them involving the expenditure sum years ago of heavy counsel fees—all failed. Monday's meeting may be the first step toward affording some relief from the situation constantly complained of in Danville.

TO APPOINT VETERINARIAN TO INSPECT MEAT AND MILK

Changes in the method of meeting and dairy inspection are forecast in the light of discussions which took place yesterday before the public welfare committee of the city council. The committee, it is understood, will recommend to the council the employment of a veterinarian to have charge of this work at the beginning of the next fiscal year this relieving George S. Dyer of meat inspection which he has undertaken of recent years in connection with his work as clerk of the markets, and E. L. Hatchett who for the past two years has carried out this work in a manner which Dr. Garnett said this morning was entirely satisfactory. The proposed change is calculated to increase the efficiency in the inspection of meats and milk and to afford a better measure of protection to the public. It is held that a veterinarian is better equipped to judge meats and milk by virtue of his special technical training.
The man who is known to be held in view by the committee is W. G. Crisman at present mayor of Blacksburg who has been to Danville recently in connection with the post. When Dr. Garnett was called this morning with reference to his possible appointment to the Danville post he stated that there was nothing definite and that it could not be said with certainty that Mr. Crisman will be the man for terms with him have no been made and will not be until the council has given its sanction to the proposed move. Mr. Crisman, however, is known to have made an excellent impression on city officials who met him and the belief is that he will ultimately agree to come here.
The appointment of a veterinarian will be of particular interest to the public as meat and milk for public consumption in Danville, Dr. Garnett pointed out this morning that all shipped in meat is already government inspected. At the present time meat slaughtered here is not subjected to inspection and whether or not a piece of meat displayed for sale is fit for human consumption depends upon the smell and its appearance which is not always infallible. Should Mr. Crisman be appointed it would mean that all meat to be slaughtered would be examined by the meat inspector and it would be examined by him at the time of being killed.
Dr. Garnett said this morning in answer to questions that Mr. Crisman has been for four years a professor at the extension division at Blacksburg. For four years he was state veterinarian in North Carolina and is highly thought of.
The city health officer made it plain that the proposed change was not intended to reflect upon either Mr. Dyer or Mr. Hatchett who, he said, have done good work in their respective fields. He said it was a necessary adjustment, however, and one which in its course necessitated the elimination of Mr. Hatchett which he very much regretted. The appointment will mean Mr. Hatchett's withdrawal from local service, but will not affect Mr. Dyer who will continue to be clerk of the markets and sealer of weights which are his duties prescribed by ordinance.
The public welfare committee it developed, invited Mr. Crisman to come to Danville. The course is in accord with the principle laid down by Dr. Garnett two years ago who held for the reasons outlined above that more efficient service in the inspection of meats especially, and milk would be possible undertaken by a veterinarian who is technically equipped by his training for such work.

MEET THE NEW ATTORNEY GENERAL

NEW YORK, April 4.—Harlan Fiske Stone, new attorney general, is a leading lawyer, inspiring educator, and a devoted husband, father, and son-in-law.

So says Mrs. E. M. Harvey, his mother-in-law who has lived with him for 15 years. "In all that time I have never heard a cross word or seen anything but a smile. Some may joke about the mother-in-law, but Harlan jokes with her."

Mrs. Harvey has known Stone since he was four months old. His family and hers were neighbors in Chesterfield, N. H. Both were farming folk.

"Quite naturally Harlan and my daughter Agnes, who is a year younger than he, grew up together," the beaming mother-in-law went on.

"They became young sweethearts and I guess they still are."

Young Stone went to Amherst; Agnes went to the Vermont Academy and they kept close track of each other and their romance grew. Proudly the girl heard of his football exploits. He became her hero.

Yet it was not primarily as an athlete that Stone shone, but as a scholar. He won a Phi Beta Kappa key and came on to New York to study at Columbia. In 1898 he was graduated and admitted to practice.

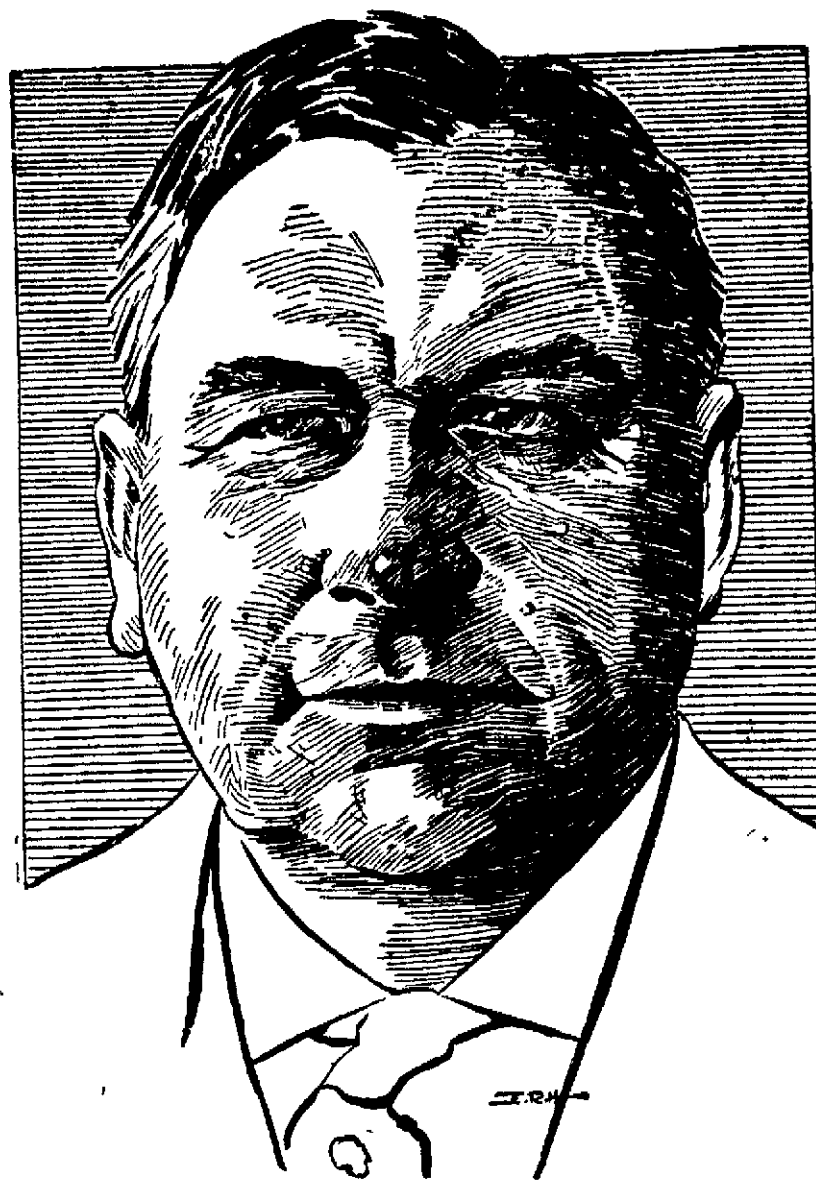

Just as soon as I was able to make a living I went back home and married," said the attorney general a few minutes after arriving home to tell his mother-in-law of his appointment.

The young couple moved to New York and the young barrister proceeded to make a name for himself in his calling. He joined the law offices of Sullivan and Cronwell and became an expert in litigation. But he did not give up his academic work. His brilliance won him an appointment as an instructor in the school where he had been student but a year before.

In 1905 he became a professor and five years later dean, a position which he held until last fall when he resigned to devote more of his time to private practice. At these years he never let his work interfere with his family relations. He was the pal of his two sons, Marshall, now 21, and Lauson, 19.

Greatest Thrill
His greatest thrill comes with their achievements. Marshall became an expert in mathematics and was graduated from Harvard at 19, became an instructor at 20, and expects to get his Ph. D. this year. Lauson, Harlan's junior, hopes to follow his father's calling.

"The boys and father make a great trio," says Mrs. Harvey, "when they get together and discuss things."

HARLAN FISKE STONE SKETCHED BY ARTIST E. R. HIGGINS.

Dean Stone, as he still is called around Columbia, is fundamentally a scholar. He does not like golf, motor racing and other diversions of the usual professional man. His favorite outdoor sport is fishing. His favorite indoor sport is reading. Neither he nor his boys smoke, but they raise some smoke with their discussions.

When they don't spend summers traveling abroad they spend them on Isle Au Haut, Maine.

His summer home Stone will probably have to stay in Washington, for today that he would finish the fight in the first round if possible. "In order to show the world that I am quitting as good as ever."

Firpo's fine condition was evident as he danced about his sparring partners. The Argentine said that after his bout with Spalla, was now entirely well.

DOHENY TELLS HOW HE MET AL FALL AND HOW HE MADE FIRST STRIKE

By E. L. DOHENY

Came a word of the discovery of gold in the Black Hills, and I rushed in—only to be disappointed again. For Black Hills was still part of Indian Territory, not open to prospecting.

I went on into Colorado; then to Pueblo. But without any luck. Part of the time I went with a party of prospectors, among whom were Ed Wright, Wild Mac and Tom Walsh, father-in-law of Edward B. McLean, editor of the Washington Post and Cincinnati Enquirer.

But I left them and went on alone to the head of Cave Creek, where I found some gold which I mined in a primitive Mexican way—and made my first money from minerals.

That was in 1876. The next year I made a little more from an operation at Great Eagle, Gluch, near Bradshaw. But it wasn't a great deal. I didn't seem to have much luck with gold.

So I drifted on and discovered the district now known as Sierra County, N. M. It was a wild place, where those who went in were supposed never to come out alive. But I came out with silver that I found at North Percha, and then got $3,500 for leasing the Silver Nugget mine.

In 1882 I helped found Kingston, which I discovered two years before. There I taught school for a spell and then went back to prospecting.

My second silver money came from selling two claims I held, to Jeff Reynolds for $7,000. Next came the returns from selling Miners Dream to a man from Morristown.

These returns spurred me on. I wanted to make more strikes. When I couldn't find them in one place, I went elsewhere. I guess I worked in almost every mining camp in the southwest.

I made many friends. I met Charles Canfield, with whom I later was to make my first oil strike. I met "Al" Fall and we became friends.

Mrs. Stone may not be able to help her husband with his momentous task. For she has not been in good health the past few weeks.

But Stone under tension fights hardest, as his strong square chin indicates.

In all these years I have never known Fall to do a dishonest act. Our relations—at all times—were on the highest plane—as must be where friendship is real.

But while I made many friends in the old days I didn't make much money. Once I fell down a mine shaft and broke both legs. I was laid up for a long time. I began to study law by myself. I recalled how I used to dream of growing up to be a lawyer, while I was at school in Fond du Lac.

By the time that my bones were knit, I had mastered enough law to pass the examination for admittance to the bar. I practiced for a year or more but the urge to go prospecting again was too great. So I went back and kept at it—without much more luck than before.

Finally I decided to change the scene of operation and went to Los Angeles.

To Make The Five-Cent Fare a Success

We will have to carry 27% more passengers.

When we carry 100 people now about 35 pay a 7c cash fare, and about 65 pay 6c—tokens.

Thirty-five paying 7c yields $2.45, and sixty-five paying 6c yields $3.90, or a total of $3.35 for 100 passengers.

To yield $6.35 at 5c requires 127 passengers, or a

27% increase in the number of passengers to yield the same amount as 100 passengers are now paying.

THREE NEGROES ARE HELD FOR ROBBERY

Yesterday Willie May Harris, colored, hurried to police headquarters to report that she had been robbed of $50. Within a few hours she herself was in jail on a charge of robbery involving the same $50, together with Harvey Morton and George Jolly. The trio were this morning held for the grand jury on charges of robbing William Brown at the Jolly woman's house on Newton street, after a hearing before the mayor. George Jolly was also sentenced to thirty days in jail and fined $51 and costs on a charge of selling counterfeit spirits. All three are colored.

The robbery story is a complicated affair. Yesterday morning Willie May Harris came to police headquarters and swore to a warrant against Harvey Morton, George Jolly and herself. She said that she and Morton had been to the home of the Jolly woman and taken what he got. The Harris woman stated that she took Brown into a room. When Brown took out his roll of greenback to pay a $2 debt, he dropped the balance of the roll along the coast. The first opportunity, she said, she covered it with her foot and in a short time picked it up when Brown wasn't looking.

The Harris woman stated that as soon as she had robbed the old man, Harvey Morton appeared on the scene and demanded of her to hand over the money to him. "I know you got it, I brought him here," the woman quipped. Morton said she said she declined to turn the money over to him and he proceeded to take it by force, tearing her coat in so doing.

It was then that she came to the courthouse and swore to a warrant against Morton. Although involving herself as an accomplice in the robbery, the woman contended that she "found" the money, after Brown had "lost" it on the floor, and that she saw him lose it. Brown, however, declares that it was taken from his pocket. While at the house he is alleged to have purchased some whiskey from George Jolly.

The only other cases tried this morning were a charge of non-support against M. C. Brady, which was continued and a loitering charge against Boston, Allen, colored, who was fined $2.50 and costs.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW ORLEANS, April 5.—The cotton market had an excited and higher opening, first trades showing gains of 15 to 22 points over the previous close. Prices then advanced rapidly. May crossing the 31 cent line to 31.14, 38 points above yesterday's close. July advanced to 29.48 or 45 points net higher. October traded up to 25.12 or 38 points up. The advance was due to large spot sales in Liverpool for a Saturday ten thousand bales—an 11th increased strength of the manufacturer's goods market. Prices eased off about 15 points later and the market quieted down some.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Weakness of Hurling Staff Keeps Bentley in Role of Pitcher

NEW YORK, April 5.—Only the prospects for him last summer to great advantage.

During his days of starring for the Baltimore club, in the International league, Manager Dunn handled Bentley as a first baseman when he was pitching against clubs that were soft for him. Bentley only lost one game in the International league.

Were not George Kelly such a good fielder and dangerous hitter, McGraw would probably use Bentley exclusively at first base.

It is a rather interesting fact that Babe Ruth and George Slaughter, two of the outstanding stars of the American league, entered that organization as pitchers, only to be played elsewhere regularly because of their hitting.

South Boston

(Special to The Bee)
SOUTH BOSTON, Va., April 5.—The funeral services for C. A. Webb, aged Confederate Veteran, who died Thursday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, was held from the home of his son, Hubert Webb, at Collins Heights, at 3:00 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Webb is well-known in South Boston and throughout Halifax County, and was associated with the Virginia Legion of Confederate Veterans of South Boston for a number of years.

Edmondson, 88; Mrs. Mary E. Crews, 75 and Mrs. A. Elizabeth Jeffries, 88. ## TWO BURNED TO DEATH

NORFOLK, Va., April 5.—Clarence Bailey and his mother, Mrs. Lillian M. Fluke, were burned to death yesterday when the cottage attempted to burn. The aged woman, from the second story of their burning home at Dam Neck, in Princess Anne county.

Mrs. Fluke was 74 years old and was blind. Her son was 43 years old. Mrs. Fluke was the first to discover the fire, which started from a kitchen stove, but was too feeble to save herself. ## Community Welfare Association Meets Trying Situation

The value of the Community Welfare Association to this community is being revealed in many ways just now when it is dealing with a local situation, which has caused an extraordinary increase in outside demands. The local industrial situation is primarily the cause. It was, in a measure, for the emergency and is reported to be doing effective work and minimizing in no uncertain way many of the hardships now being experienced.

The greatest demand has been that of outside relief among families who suddenly deprived of ability to earn full measure, have been compelled to apply for assistance. The aggregate demands have resulted in a large increase in the outside work done by the association. The board of directors of the Community Welfare Association, recognizing the urgent need of more money for relief purposes, recently made available the additional sum of $500, this being taken from the emergency fund carried over from last year. Beginning in May the city's monthly payment will be appreciably larger since the budget provision calls for an increase of from $2,500 to $2,600 for this work. Not long since the city made an emergency appropriation for this work.

These measures, however, do not fully meet the immediate needs. While assistance to various families has been reduced to the barest minimum in order that the available money may be performed service in the largest number of families, the relief demands are increasing rapidly. The expenditures in relief for the few months prior to February were $400 per month. In February, they leaped to $12,000, and in March they ran as high as $1,400. It is evident that at the end of the current month the relief expenditures will exceed $1,400 considerably. The advent of warmer weather, however, is expected to be a help, since it will obviate the necessity of purchasing fuel which, during the winter, has been a large item.

TENNIS FINAL POSTPONED

(By The Associated Press.)
AUGUSTA, Ga., April 4.—Rain fell all day today causing the features in the single finals of the South Atlantic States Tennis Tournament here to be postponed until tomorrow. Hundreds of fans from out of town were disappointed at not getting a chance to see William Tilden, 2nd, of Philadelphia, in action.

NEGRO STUDENT CONTINUES STORM CENTER OF COLLEGE

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, April 5.—Furnald Hall, at Columbia University, a room of which is occupied by Frederick W. Wells, negro law student, of Union City, Tenn., continues to be a storm center. Wells has received two letters threatening death, purporting to have been sent by Ku Klux Klansmen. The negro whose residence at Furnald Hall has been the scene of contention between two factions, culminating Thursday in the burning by unknown persons of a flaming cross on the campus, reiterated his determination to stay.

One of the letters was scrawled in pen, enclosed in a plain envelope, which Wells found under his door. The second, typewritten, reached him by mail.

As three members of the police bomb squad kept guard in the dormitory last night, two factions in the dispute further strengthened their lines. J. B. Rucker, chairman of the Hall committee presented to Dean Hawkes a resolution of the committee asking Wells' removal from the building. A counter request urging that Wells be allowed to stay was signed by 100 residents, more than half of those in the building. Dr. C. M. Mantell, one of the ten members of the hall committee, resigned. He was the second to go during the week.

They All Praise Buick

Ask any garageman, any mechanic, in fact, any person who knows motor cars, what he thinks about Buick. Invariably he will tell you that Buick is a thoroughly good, high grade and dependable automobile and that a person makes a genuinely satisfactory investment when he buys one. Then ask the Buick owners you know what they think about Buick. Do these things and you will quickly understand why Buick has sold over one million motor cars and why you, too, should own a Buick.

"BACK TO THE BIBLE"

It has become rather fashionable of late to cast discredit upon the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments. Its miracles have been denied, its teachings repudiated, and its inspiration and very Christ scoffed at.

This fashion will not be followed by Evangelist Uzzell D. Pickard, of Washington, D. C., who will give a series of "Back to the Bible" addresses in Danville this month. These addresses will be given in Silverman's vacant store, 225 Main street, beginning April 6th at 7:45 p. m.

The Bible will be held out to the people as the inspired and authoritative Will of God, the Way of Eternal Life, and the Foundation of Saving Faith.

Each address will be illustrated by the use of the stereopticon. Every text read will be thrown upon the screen, together with pictures and other illustrations that all may see as well hear how the Bible reads.

Subjects will be presented, the meaning and truth of which you have often perused. The great lines of prophecy found in the Bible will be given special attention.

The perplexing subject of the reason for the origin of sin and Satan, and why God has permitted Satan to live, will be presented, and is of intense interest to every person.

Addresses will be given night after night, and will be of great interest. They will be connected in such a way that to miss one will be a real loss.

Such subjects as the following will be presented: "Heaven," "Hell," "The Future Life," "The United States as Outlined in the Book of the Revelation," "The Coming Peace of the World," "Will There Be Another War?" "The Great Counterfeit of Christianity," "The Millennium," "The Return of Jesus," and many others which every person in Danville should plan to hear.

SATURDAY
The Moral Quitter

Read Mt. 19:13-22. Text: 19:22.

He went away.
"The hope of it (life) is simply the desire to keep on working with a multitude of others for the common good.
Anyone who did not resent the idea that his chance to work for the common good must end with death would be a moral quitter. He would show that he did not care enough about the unselfish, honest, friendly life to wish to keep on living it."

MEDITATION: To live an unselfish life in a world where there are so many things which can gratify not only the material longings but even the finer tastes of men is indeed a difficult accomplishment. "But to every man and every man a high way and a low, and there every man deserveth the way his soul shall go." In all the world what sadder sight than that of a man who, knowing the higher, turns to the lower way of living?

PERSONAL QUESTION: Is there anything in what I have or am that looks larger than the Will of God?

PRAYER: Almighty God, our Father, we pray for those whose eyes are turned away from thee. May the circumstances of their lives and the woofing of thy spirit call them again to thyself. May we learn ways of spiritual fellowship with all thy children, that thy "peace may prevail in all our hearts, through Christ, Amen."

peatedly it has been asserted that when control of their government returns to the Russian people bolshevism will pass. It seems logical, therefore, to suppose that the name
Leninism will pass, also.

Just what position Lenin will occupy in history cannot be foreseen.
As time passes and the remembrance of the atrocities for which he was responsible becomes less acute the world appears to be taking a more magnanimous view of him. There are some persons, not particularly friendly to bolshevism, who think that a few centuries hence he will be regarded as one of the greatest men of this age.

Even though Lenin's power should be recognized, it would seem that a way should have been found to honor him without depriving Peter the Great of the honor of having the city which he founded named for him.
Peter, though czar, was rather democratic in his ways, and the bolsheviki, one would suppose, would have no desire to belittle his memory.
Peter as a young man worked in the dockyards at Zaandam, Holland, and also at Deptford, England, and his second wife, who became empress, was a Lithuanian or Estonian peasant girl. It was Peter who introduced Western civilization into Russia, and transformed the latter from a backward Oriental country into a great power.

There is no question that he was a great man. While it is not for us to make comparisons, in the absence of a proper perspective from which to view Lenin, it seems as if the soviets were trying to compel the historians of the future to grant high rank to Lenin through their action in substituting his name for Peter's, as if to imply that the late bolshevik leader were the more illustrious figure.

TO THE NATIONAL GAME

It is generally known that great oaks from little acorns grow and that baseball only swelled into its present position of being the national game from the humblest beginnings. Which is by way of preface to drawing attention to the proposal of Senator Pepper to have the government recognize the growth of baseball and the place it occupies in the national regard by donating a site for a monument to the sport in one of the parks of Washington.

That is all Senator Pepper asks Congress to do, just say that the monument can be erected on government property. One of the two major leagues will do the rest, provide the funds for the memorial. And if popularity is authority for monumental recognition, baseball should have a statue. The sport is a fine one and as a developer of Young America has been a potent influence along the lines of manliness and health.

Baseball is something more than a mere sport. It symbolizes the democracy of the nation and on the field and in the stands all the daily battles of place and honor are temporarily leveled in the free masonry of a common enthusiasm.

A monument to baseball would probably gratify national sentiment and be viewed with interest by most visitors to Washington.

The War On Mosquitoes.

In his "The New Decalogue of Science," Wiggam suggests that insects may finally drive men off the earth. It is true that men are winning the battle up to date, but insects are like the English people—they lost battles, but they win wars.

It is Wiggam's contention that we are malleable-coddling men until the capacity of the stock to fight is petering out, whereas the fight of insects to survive is resulting in wiping out all but the hard to kill strains. Whether or not this is true, it behooves us to learn all we can about harmful insects.

At the present time, so far as the United States is concerned, the most harmful insect is the malaria bearing group of mosquitoes. For practical purposes, malaria is carried over from the autumn of one year to about the middle of the next by infected human beings.
The mosquito, which is the carrier, is infected in the spring and in the fall infected men ready to infect them, in order that they may infect other men. The malaria mosquitoes make up the other half of the picture.

North of the thirty-second parallel,
that is, a line through Savannah, Ga.,
Montgomery, Ala., Vicksburg, Miss.,
Shreveport, La., El Paso, Tex., and
San Diego, Cal., mosquitoes hibernate.
However, at times, both mosquitoes and flies are carried into this more northern territory by trains and seasons of the year. South of this line it has been found that malaria mosquitoes do not hibernate, though when the weather is quite cold they become less active.

In experiments made by the public health service in Louisiana, southern Alabama, and Mississippi, it was found that malaria mosquitoes lay eggs, eggs hatch into wigglers, pupae, and finally become adult mosquitoes, all winter long. As a rule mosquitoes do not feed on human blood during cold weather. A long time ago the mosquito learned the lesson which Ghandi is trying to teach the world of humans, namely, that no resistance was the best resistance, at times.

When the weather is cold and life for the mosquito is hard, that astute animal takes no chances on being killed by man. As a rule, he does not bite.
There are exceptions. In making the investigations the government mosquito experts set traps consisting of boxes lined with black cloth. These caught no mosquitoes. They then set traps consisting of boxes in which boxes were put. These hog baited boxes caught a few mosquitoes.

One conclusion was that before winter mosquitoes could be eliminated it would be necessary to find some kind of mosquito trap better than any now in use.

They found mosquito eggs in quite cold water. Wigglers were even found in water that had some oil in it. Female mosquitoes confined in open cages over cold water laid eggs; these eggs hatched and the wigglers moved about, fed, and matured in water that was as cold as 50.

The investigators conclude that development of ova larvae and pupae continues in winter as in summer, but more slowly. Winter attacks on malaria include attacks on wigglers as well as on adult mosquitoes.

Some Good Advice.

cradle for my son, I learned the following note in this country, the following note was attached:

others whom it may concern: This is not a doll, but a human being put at your mercy for the present by your superior strength. Please do not take advantage of this to kiss her, to excite her nerves, or to play with her for your amusement. When you are with her, ask yourself if what you are doing with her is really done for her good or for your own gratification."

MISS ALIAS

By DOUGLAS GRANT

SYNOPSIS
Sallie Peck, employee of the Fair Deal Five & Ten, quarrels with her policeman sweetheart, Michael Curtis. At night Sallie goes into the yard to take down a washing for Ma Brennan, with whom Sallie lives.
A crash shakes the earth and something strikes Sallie a blow on the head.

When she regains consciousness the girl finds herself in strange surroundings. A French maid calls her Alva Copeland and Madame Copeland, a tall, richly gowned woman, claims her as her step-daughter.

Sallie meets Cousin Wheeler who makes love to her. She resolves to solve the mystery of why she is being substituted for the real Alva Copeland.

Sallie tells the Copelands she is wise to their game and that, if they pay her enough, she will play a hand for them. The Copelands accept Sallie's offer.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"But if I do carry it off and you refuse to keep your part of the agreement, somebody that's interested might get a straight tip not as to me but as to he real 'Alva.' I looks like we've got to trust each other or call the whole thing off."

Mrs. Copeland had sunk back in her chair at the mention of her step-daughter's name and Sallie started glancing at each and observed:
"There are reasons why Miss Alva Copeland does not care to appear in this and if you take her place you must do so blindly, asking no questions. As you say, we must trust each other on both sides. We will let you know this afternoon as to whether or not we are willing to meet your terms."

Taking this as a dismissal, Sallie glanced at Mrs. Copeland and rose, out paused in the doorway.
"I wouldn't have to go around New York very much, would I? It's only fair to warn you I've got friends in this town even if I ain't ever been here before and a whole lot I suppose they'll run away somebody might recognize me and write back and tell
'em. Yesterday I thought maybe I'd like to go home but now I've made up my mind that I don't ever want to hit that burg or meet anybody in
it again."

"Why?" Sallie began but Sallie interrupted him with a grin.
"If I ain't asking questions I ain't answering the 'Mr. Sloat!'"

She closed the door behind her and as in the morning found Sallie gis-tering at the stairs' head. Sallie gistered toward the room she had just left.

"See if you ucan listen in and get a line on what they're talking about here before and a whole lot I suppose they'll run away somebody might
recognize me and write back and tell
'em. Yesterday I thought maybe I'd like to go home but now I've made
up my mind that I don't ever want
to hit that burg or meet anybody in
it again."

"Well, we won't discuss it now,"
Mrs. Copeland's tone had softened and she seated herself on the chaise longue. "My dear, we have decided to accept your terms. From now on you are to be my stepdaughter, 'Alva.'
"You're on!—I mean, I'll do it,"
Mrs. Copeland. Sallie amended happily. "I'll do my best to get away with it and I'll be dead on the level with you. That's all I can say."

"It is sufficient—Alva," Mrs. Copland beamed graciously and opened a small, flat leather case which she carried. "I promised you some jewels suitable for your age and position, and these are the first. I have stuffed the quick beating of her heart as she eyed the single strand of small, perfectly matched pearls but her eyes shone as she raised them once more to those of the older woman although she endeavored to keep her voice calmly practiced.

"They're pretty, all right, and I suppose they're the real thing but ain't they kind of dinky and five-and-ten for swell society? I thought you meant something big—diamonds, maybe."

She held her breath, reading Mrs.
Copeland's look of disgust at her scooping avarice, but the other's tone was resigned as she took the pearls from the box and held them out.

"These are for a young girl, and these are very valuable. I am sorry you don't like them but let me put them about your neck. There! See how becoming they are!"

Sallie murmured half-abashed
thanks and then added determinedly:
"There's one big diamond I'll have anyway, ain't there? When is Cousin Wheeler coming across?"

"Wheeler?" Mrs. Copeland appeared puzzled.

"Sure," Sallie nodded. "I may not know much about rings but I'm wise to engagement society all right, and I've got to keep myself company with him I think I ought to have the whole work."

Mrs. Copeland rose with an air of exasperation.

"Comet!" she exclaimed. "I will repeat your suggestion to him."

"Believe me, Sallie, in the sitting room with young Sloat and the two appeared to have been engaged in an argument which had been slightly heated on the younger man's part but it ceased abruptly on their extrance."

Social Activities

Freshmore Club Banquet
The girls of the Freshmore Club kept their promise Friday night by giving to their club a party of promise. There really was something doing every minute and those present, numbering thirty-five or more, had a good time from start to finish. The girls who did not have a father to represent them invited an uncle or cousin or friend, so that every girl had a worthy sponsor for whom she did her best in furnishing entertainment and amusement.

The T. W. C. A. living rooms were prettily decorated with spring flowers and the tables were aglow with snowy linen and silver.

As the guests took their places, Mr. A. E. Garrett asked a blessing upon the assembly. Miss Annie Garrett made a speech of welcome which was followed by a song of welcome by the members of the club.

Dr. R. Bruce Ames responded with a speech expressing the pleasure and keen sense of appreciation felt by the Dads in being the guests of honor. He spoke on the value of music in the life of every one and the importance of cultivating the ability to express joyful emotion through song.

Miss Winifred Calpepper then sang a solo song to a toast to the Fathers sung by the daughter. As the banquet progressed "Opinions" were called for. Mrs. Hinchliffe, secretary of the "Y" making the Girl Reserves response in "What the Girl Reserves Can do for the Country."

Miss Clark followed Mrs. Hinchliffe with "what the Girl Reserves can do for Danville."

Miss Annie James, club advisor, spoke of the pleasure and benefit she had derived from being associated with the Girl Reserves of the Freshmore Club.

Messrs. A. E. Garrett, Hill, and Bennett made appropriate speeches telling what they, as fathers, believe the Girl Reserves are doing for their daughters.

A piano solo by Miss Jeannette Luther and a recitation, "For a Friend," by Annie Garrett, and "For Our Dads," by Miss Ida Coleman, completed the first part of the program.

Miss Gladys Heard, at the piano, played accompaniments and popular music during the evening.

Miss Martha Allen, Girl Reserve secretary, made a talk explaining the benefit and pleasure of the summer camp.

Miss Frances Hall, faculty advisor of the club, being absent, was pleasantly remembered by an appropriate "vell."

At the close of the entertainment every one present joined most heartily in singing the Association Hymn, "Hymn of Light."

How to Be Healthy

These exercises aren't suggested merely for those who think they are too fat and want to reduce. They are not meant for persons who want to become professional acrobats. They are meant for every man, woman and child who wants to be healthy.

Properly applied, they will be for health, beauty and vigor. They will make for red cheeks and healthy color from the inside, not from the outside.

No matter what you do, do it as an exercise. Be it walking to the store, do it with swank and swing. Shoulders back, head up, chin in. Be it sweeping, do it with shoulders back, head erect and strong swing. Be it hanging on a strap in a crowded street or subway car, pull up on it, as I do on my rings in the arena.

Little equipment is necessary to get the proper exercise.

Jumping the rope, climbing, throwing a basketball and punching the bag strengthen the muscles and develop circulation and grace. It is the spirit that counts, not the trimmings.

My mother is past 57. Yet she is lithe and graceful enough to do a first in the circus. Her health is perfect. Her secret: exercise.

No strict rules of abstinence need be laid down. If perchance you like smoking, smoke, but not to excess. Don't let the faddist worry you. Act as you please, healthfully and with vim, and you'll never have to worry about dieting, daily dozens or any of the other bans which make so many persons' lives miserable.

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotions Revealed in Private Letters

TELEGRAM FROM RUTH ELLINGTON TO WESLEY SMITH, ATTORNEY

I would like to speak to Mr. Smith. Who shall I tell him is speaking? Mrs. Ruth Ellington.

Can I take the message? No, it is personal.

Good morning, Mrs. Ellington. I have decided to apply for a divorce from my husband, Mr. Smith. Will you tell me what kind of procedure I must follow. You know he deserted me one year ago.

Do you know where he is? I haven't the slightest idea since he left town. Will you make an appointment with me to take the case? Certainly, Mrs. Ellington. Can you come down this afternoon about four?

Yes, I will be there.

Clipping from the Daily Clarion: Yesterday Mrs. Ruth Ellington applied for a divorce from her husband, Harry Ellington, on the grounds of desertion.

It will be remembered that Ellington left the city about a year ago, taking with him a great deal of money belonging mostly to friends.

A young woman, to whom he had been quite attentive, disappeared about the same time. Nothing has been heard of either of them since.

Mrs. Ellington, however, makes no mention of any co-respondent. She says that she has no knowledge of where her husband is, at the present, and asks for no alimony. Wesley Smith has been retained by her as attorney. Telegram from Sally Atherton to Leslie Prescott: Arrived to find Sam unconscious. No hope held out for his recovery. Have no idea when I shall return. SALLY.

Night letter from John Alden Prescott to Leslie Prescott: Syd is recovering slowly. He recognized me this morning. Pretty badly bungled up. Two of his ribs broken and one leg broken at the knee. He will be in the hospital at least two months. I shall remain here until he is quite conscious of his surroundings.

Perhaps you had better come down as soon as he is able to see anyone, and then I will come home with you. Poor old Syd needs the best that is coming to any man and he seems to have gotten the worst. You know, Leslie, he is quite the best friend I ever had. I will stay with him a while. Much love. JACK.

DAUGHERTY A PUZZLE TO THE REPUBLICANS

By ROBERT T. SMALL
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
CLEVELAND, O., April 5.—Harry Daugherty's evident determination to continue as a candidate for delegate at large to the Republican national convention on the Coolidge ticket in this state, has created a situation which is puzzling the politicians more than any condition with which they have had to deal in a generation.

Odd as it may seem, the break between the president and the former attorney general seems to have strengthened Mr. Daugherty's chances of election. It was freely predicted two weeks ago that Mr. Daugherty would be "cut" on the primary ballot this year just as he was in 1920 when even as general manager of the Harding campaign for the nomination, he was defeated in his ambition to represent the state at Chicago.

Since he was forced out of the cabinet there has been a reaction which undoubtedly is favorable to Mr. Daugherty and many of those who had announced they would vote against him, say now they will give him the last honor which he gives him. Mr. Daugherty's name appears on the ballot and beneath it is the pledge to vote for Mr. Coolidge when the convention meets in this city. The former attorney general recently has stated that nothing had happened to mar his friendship and loyalty to the president. There is a disposition to regard the primary race as Harry Daugherty's swan song and for that reason some of his oldest enemies in state politics are silent.

Apparently they are willing that he should have this mood of comfort before passing into political limbo. The Ohio primary will be held in the state as yet because the forces have not made a militant campaign in the state as yet because the Senator Johnson, who is bearing the entire brunt of the campaign himself, has been too busy elsewhere. The senator probably will make a whirlwind tour of Ohio just before the primary date. His followers have been confidently predicting that they will defeat at least one delegate-at-large from this state and several districts from this state and several districts from this state.

The Coolidge campaign managers are not a little worried over the Daugherty situation for they have sensed the popular reaction which seems to be based upon the belief that having been permitted to enter the investigation the attorney general might have been permitted to make some sort of defense before being ousted. Yet, the reaction to Daugherty does not imply the slightest reaction against Mr. Coolidge as a candidate for the nomination. As a matter of fact, there will be no way in which the friends of Daugherty could show any resentment against the president in the primary. A vote for Daugherty will be a vote for Coolidge. In order to vote against Coolidge, it would be necessary for a strictly Daugherty man to vote against the latter.

There is no doubt but that the Coolidge managers would feel more comfortable if Mr. Daugherty were off the ticket but they do not dare to openly express the opinion that he should resign. Even if the brief time before the primary permitted such action on his party. The Coolidge supporters were particularly worried over the first reports from Atlantic City that the former attorney general was going to deliver a veritable broadside against his former chief because of the unexpected request for his resignation. How that statement has appeared and has included a new pledge of loyalty to Mr. Coolidge much of the uneasiness has disappeared. Harry Daugherty is a stormy petrel, however, in Ohio politics and the fear that something may happen to cause him to erupt again is an ever living on with the Coolidge forces.

There is no doubt that Harry Daugherty has become quite a local hero and there is also no doubt that if elected a delegate to the Cleveland convention he will be even more of a hero at the gathering which is to be held here in his home state. Mr. Daugherty ordinarily might retire from the race, but it has been his life ambition to be elected a delegate-at-large to a national convention and it would seem that this time, he has his best chance despite the fact that he could not win the honor four years ago when he was booted out of a favorite son for the nomination. There is a disposition to regard the primary race as Harry Daugherty's swan song and for that reason some of his oldest enemies in state politics are silent.

Apparently they are willing that he should have this mood of comfort before passing into political limbo. The Ohio primary will be held in the state as yet because the forces have not made a militant campaign in the state as yet because the Senator Johnson, who is bearing the entire brunt of the campaign himself, has been too busy elsewhere. ### Three Dead From Effects of Burns

PULASKI, Va., April 4.—Two men and a boy are dead here from burns received in fighting a forest fire which raged yesterday near Pulaski on the watershed which supplies the town reservoir.

The dead are: J. P. Sheppard, 55, and W. H. Stoots, 46, town employees, and Mack Wyrick, 13. Sheppard and Stoots were sent out by Pulaski officials to combat the fire and were trapped when changing winds caused the flames to encircle them. They died last night in a local hospital.

The Wyrick boy accompanied the men when they left town for the watershed. His body was found in a ravine by men sent as reinforcement against the fire. All his clothing had been burned from his body except a sweater. Two widows and nineteen children survive the dead men.

"From Millions to Pennies"

HENRY SIEGEL, ONCE MILLIONAIRE MERCHANT, SELLS A DOLLAR TIE IN HIS LITTLE STORE IN HACKENSACK, N. J.

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS

HACKENSACK, N. J., April 5.—The rise of Henry Siegel from a $3.50-a-week clerk to the head of one of the largest mercantile institutions in this country and his fall to part ownership in a tiny New Jersey haberdashery is a stage plot made to order.

Scene One is laid in Chicago where he fought against poverty, got his footing and finally organized Siegel, Cooper & Co.

Scene Three—A five-room flat in Ruthersford, N. J., that costs just $60 a month, from which Siegel takes a trolley each morning to Hackensack to open the doors of the Henri Men's Shop and waits on customers all day.

Scene Four—Well, Siegel himself does not know what it may bring but he hopes it's nothing spectacular.

"I'd like to fade quietly from the picture," he told me as we talked of the failure in which he had lost all to his creditors.

after wealth is worth it," he assured me. "With lots of money you have power and influence that are worth any price in effort."

"People have asked me to start another store and have offered to back me, but it takes lots of money to get there, and financiers putting up five millions in a venture want a younger man than I am."

"Thirty years ago you could start with a little and expand, but today you must have a large investment at the start."

His greatest consolation is that his present life gives him a little time in the evening to read the authors he slighted years ago, and the village movies take him back to the scenes of his former triumphs.

"And I'm 65 years old now," he concluded sadly. "I can give me little—or take but little from me."

LONDON, April 4.—Sydney Webb, president of the board of trade, answering a question in the House of Commons today, said that during the first nine months of last year 23,599 skilled craftsmen in metal and engineering trades had left Great Britain for non-European countries of whom 12,807 were taking up permanent residence in the United States.

EXCEPTIONAL RIDING COMFORT

Owners continue to comment on the marked riding comfort of Dodge Brothers Motor Car.

Increased chassis length, low-sprung body and generous seat depth have much to do with this.

Primarily, however, it must be accredited to the greater buoyancy of the new spring equipment. The rear springs are ten inches longer, and underslung.

OIL STOVE

Easy To Clean

The smooth, sanitary construction of the new Red Star marks a triumph in modern stove building. Ugly bolt heads are gone. All corners, edges and joints are finished clean and rounded. No sharp corners to catch dirt or grease. Sanitary grates. All parts easy to clean.

NOW YOU CAN GET THE NEW TYPE SANITARY RED STAR OIL STOVE ON THESE WONDERFUL TERMS

The new type, sanitary Red Star Oil Stove is like NO OTHER oil stove in the world

Thousands of enthusiastic women already know this: but we want EVERY woman to know it. We want every woman to know why the Red Star is so different from other stoves, why it cooks as fast as gas, but uses oil for fuel.

The best way we can have every woman know this is to have them actually see a Red Star stove in operation.

Two things especially delight the women who see it. One is the unusual beauty of the stove with its smooth flowing stream lines combined with the sanitary white porcelain and black enamel finish. The other is the absence of wicks or wick substitutes.

All this week we will have an actual demonstration of this wonderful oil stove at our store. We invite you to come. See how the patented burner vaporizes kerosene. See how wicks or wick substitutes have been abolished. See how two blue rings of clean, odorless flame are forced right against the bottom of the utensil—where the heat belongs. See how you regulate the flame just like a gas stove. During demonstration week you can get one of these modern oil stoves on special terms arranged just for this event. We have just the model you need at a price to fit your pocketbook.

Come in Monday and Taste The Delicious Food Cooked and Baked On This Remarkable Stove.

SHIP OF STATE IS SAFE

Battling Bravely In Heavy Storm.

The good ship President Monroe went ashore off the coast of Florida, with 185 on board. This, however, is a very trivial accident when compared with that of the ship of state which is now foundering through a heavy storm.

Congress is at sea. The senators rear and the representatives lash, as overhead booms the thunder of presidential gunshots of public disapproval leap from cloud to cloud. The casualty list grows.

Mutiny breaks out among the sailors. The captain has a job on his hands to bring the valuable cargo, tax reduction, into port. But the good ship has weathered many a storm before.

HIGHER GRADE BONDS MAKE BEST SHOWING IN MART YESTERDAY

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, April 4.—Under the leadership of the New Haven issues, railroad bonds staged a spirited rally in today's active trading. Improvement was general in a variety of issues, with the average of high grade investments showing the best gains.

Of the New Haven mortgages, a number of which ordinarily are inactive, were dealt in, with unusually brisk activity in the five leading issues which advanced 1 to 3 points. Buying was based on the announcement of E. J. Pearson, president of the road, in his annual report to stockholders that plans were under consideration for refunding or extending maturing obligations.

Investment buying of railroad stocks also was accompanied by a wider inquiry for bonds, reflected in rising prices for Denver and Rio Grande issues, International and Great Northern sixes, Erie general fours, Great Northern sevens and Northern Pacific fours. Wickwire Spencer sevens recovered an additional 3 points and copper bonds displayed continued improvement.

HUNT'S WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Senatorial dignity and exclusiveness have not yet laid low the native good-fellowship and camaraderie of Magnus Johnson of Minnesota.

One of the means by which visitors to the capital are made aware of the importance and awesomeness of senators are the private elevators, duly labeled: "For Senators Only." Of course, a senator may take a guest with him in a private lift but the rank and file must crowd into the common "Public" elevators, even though the senatorial cars be running empty.

The other day Magnus arrived in the basement of the capital via the sightseers lined up in front of the door to the "Public" elevator. The car "For Senators Only" was standing empty. The Minnesota senator stepped in and then issued a blanket invitation for the waiting party to join him.

"Come ride up with me," he called. "No use waiting. This car's going right up." Thrilling at the chance to ride up in the private elevator with a real senator, no second bidding was needed. They clambered in, jamming the car to the door. As the car started up, the buzzer for the main floor sounded. There stood three or four other senators, all awaiting the private senatorial conveyance.

But they had to wait. There was no room for them. The look on their faces, as they arched "For Senators Only," jammed full of common folks, passed them by, was one of amazement, incredulity and injured dignity. And if Johnson's ears didn't burn, it was because the old sign failed to work!

One member of Congress doesn't get excited over the disclosures, by Representative Ben Johnson of Kentucky, that auctioneers selling War Department supplies received from $1000 to $42,750 per day, in commissions, for crying the sales.

"Uncle Billy" Greene of Massachusetts thinks that's fair pay for an auctioneer. "He works on a commission," says Uncle Billy, "and he earns all he gets." Other members think Greene's opinion may be biased by the fact that he is an auctioneer himself. He cried his first sale when he was 25—which was 55 years ago. For "Uncle Billy" is now 83 and one of the real patriarchs in Congress.

"No auctioneer if he is any good," he says, "will work on a salary. It is only occasionally that he holds an auction, and he must have a special talent that in itself is worth money. The difference between what an ordinary salesman and a good auctioneer will get out of a day's sales will amount to several times the commission involved."

Despite his 83 years, Greene called a sale of farm, livestock and equipment when he was back in Fall River last summer. And if the War Department is hunting for a good auctioneer for any future sales, well if he wasn't a member of Congress he'd like a fling at it!

Charles Curtis of Kansas, Republican "whip" of the Senate, might have done a little whipping to good effect the other day, had his acts there been rumors Charles did a little "tongue-lashing," which, after all, is the sort of chastisement a party "whip" is supposed to mete out.

For at 12 o'clock noon, when the gavel fell calling the Senate to order, the one United States senator on the floor and ready for business was Curtis himself. Hurried buzzing and bell-ringing finally called enough members from investigations to make up a quorum.

MRS. CUMMINS DIES FROM EFFECTS SELF- INFLICTED WOUNDS

(By The Associated Press.)

RICHMOND, April 4.—Mrs. Tula Cummins, writer, died here late tonight, completing the double tragedy begun when she and her husband, Holmes Cummins, local insurance broker and club man, shot themselves after agreement in their apartment Wednesday. Mr. Cummins died instantly when he shot a bullet through his head.

Mrs. Cummins, formerly a short story writer under the pen name of

"T. D. Pendleton," fired a pistol ball through her left breast before she passed the weapon into her husband, but lingered two days during which she gasped out a story of unhappiness because of her husband's ill health, culminating when after long deliberation they decided to die together.

Relatives of both victims are reported on their way to Richmond after learning of the affair. Funeral arrangements for neither Cummins nor his wife had been announced late tonight.

CONSERVATION INCREASES

By F. A. BEHYMER

ST. LOUIS, April 4.—The increase in conservation shown by consumers, retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers in this district has held the forward buying here to moderate proportions. Sales are slightly below normal but production and distribution are being maintained. Retail merchants blame bad weather and the late Easter for conditions in the spring apparel lines.

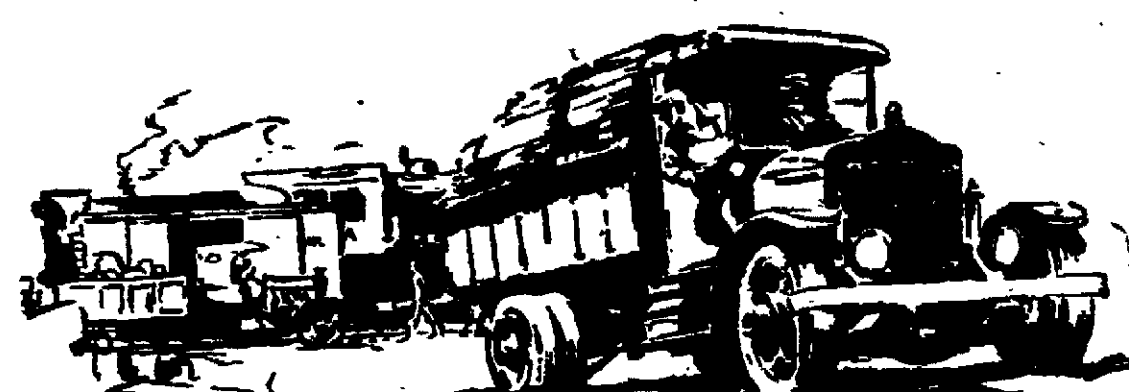

Commodity prices in general are slightly lower but freight movements are large, employment is heavy and collections satisfactory. Merchants and manufacturers complain, however, that the ratio between sales and profits is decreasing.

However, comma—

By Maurice Henle.

HOWEVER, COMMA. . . Tell me, if you can," writes E. F., "why my friend Helen makes fun of me because I read love stories and believe them fit only for persons who, as Freud would say, suppress natural emotions and must satisfy their silly romantic natures with books. The strange thing, too, is that we are alike in other ways, only in books do we differ in taste. We both read a lot, but she won't read my kind and I won't read her's."

Well, E. F., some people like mashed potatoes. Others like potatoes fried; still others baked. But we all like potatoes. Perhaps that explains it.

If everyone liked the same kind of things, this would be a funny old world. Books, plays, movies are no exception to this universal rule. I can't conceive of the same people enjoying both H. Rider Haggard's new book "Heu-Heu" (Doubleday, Page), and "The Life of Jesus," by Ernest Renan (Little, Brown).

Yet both come to my desk at the same time. Both are issued simultaneously by their publishers. Both have a field to which to go.

At the same time I can't conceive of the same people liking both John Barrymore in "Beau Brummel," and Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks." Yet both are playing to capacity houses at the Strand and Capital theaters in this city. It is as impossible to imagine the same person enjoying both, as it is to conceive John Barrymore playing "Three Weeks."

But lovers of blood and thunder enjoy Haggard, and with good cause. His Allan Quatermain stories are bits of real life, not the life known, but life in strange, far away places which Haggard has visited at some time or other.

A particular tale reveals life in South Africa and tells of clashes by Quatermain with a strange group of natives who worship Heu-Heu—the monster god. The book is reminiscent of the serial movie of adventure of which Pearl White and Ruth Roland were the trail blazers.

On Page 223, one finds: "Still, one huge gorilla-like fellow, whose hair grew down to his beetling eyebrows, got hold of the gunwhale and began to pull the canoe over. We could not shoot him because both rifles and revolvers were empty; nor did our blows make him loose his grip. . . . The canoe rocked from inside and began to sink, and began to take in water. . . . Just as I feared that the end had come. . . ."

Right here, in the movie, we might expect to see flashed on the screen: "Continued next week in this theater."

Ernest Renan's "Life of Jesus" paints the Christ as a man of great ambition. It is a story of the Bible, told in biographical style. Renan evidently tries hard to free his book of any personal feelings. His effort to remain unbiased is patently apparent.

"Jesus has now quite lost his Jewish faith," Renan writes when telling of the growing ambition for leadership of the Christ, "and returns to Galilee full of revolutionary zeal. His ideas are henceforth spoken with perfect clearness. The simple aphorisms of his earlier prophetic career, borrowed in part from the Jewish rabbis before him, lead naturally to a more decided policy."

"The Law must be abolished, and he is the one to abolish it."

Renan's frankness partly removes the glamour of mystery which the Bible by its very nature surrounds the man whose influence was responsible for the founding of the Christian religion.

WILL SUPPORT MEADDO.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 4.—Iowa's delegates to the Democratic national convention under the unit rule, though uninstructed, will vote for William G. McAdoo, as long as there is any possibility of nomination him, according to E. T. Meredith, chairman of the Iowa delegation chosen at the state convention held at Davenport yesterday.

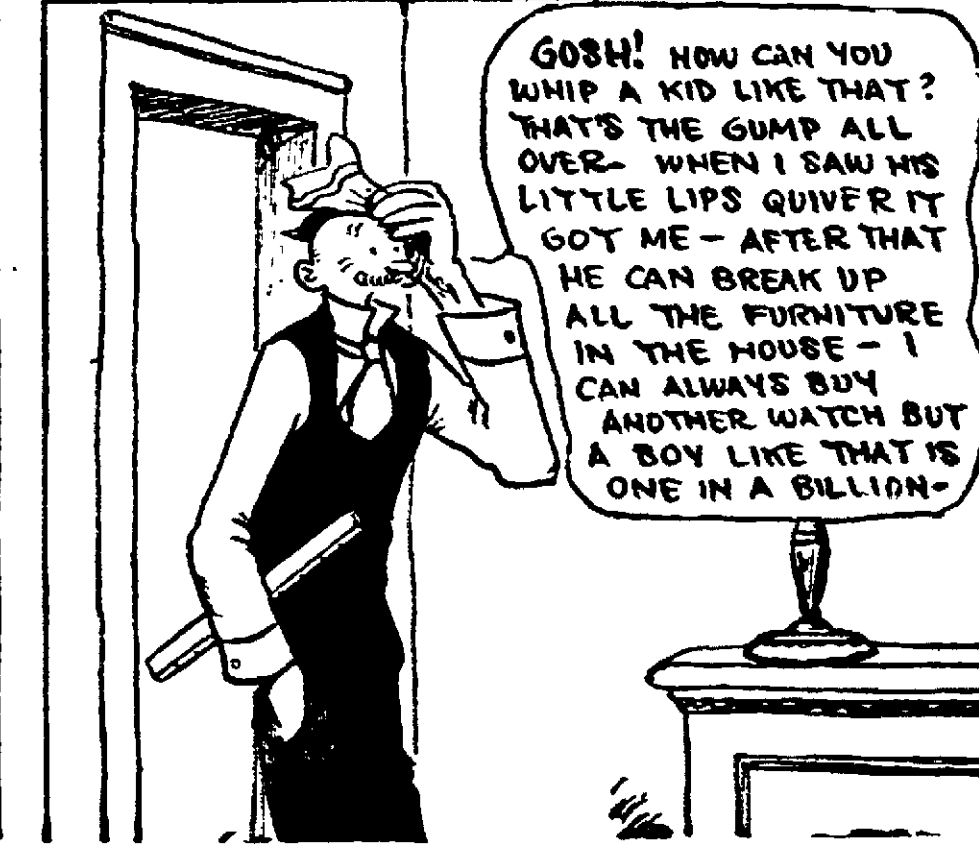

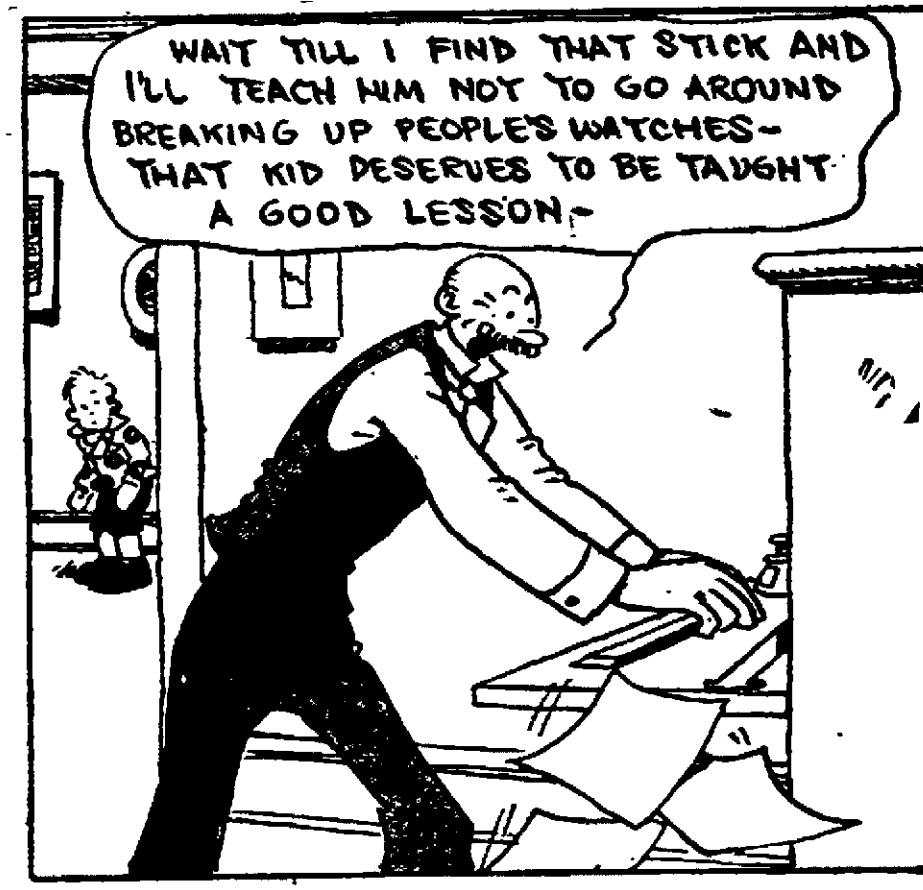

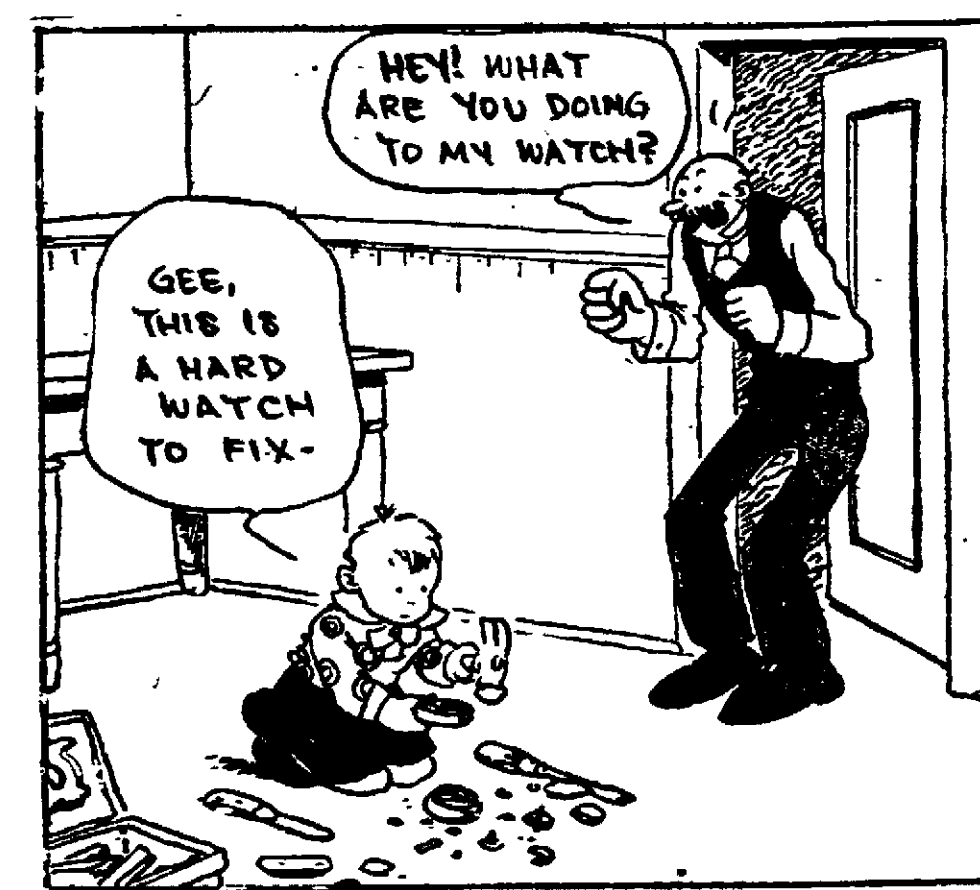

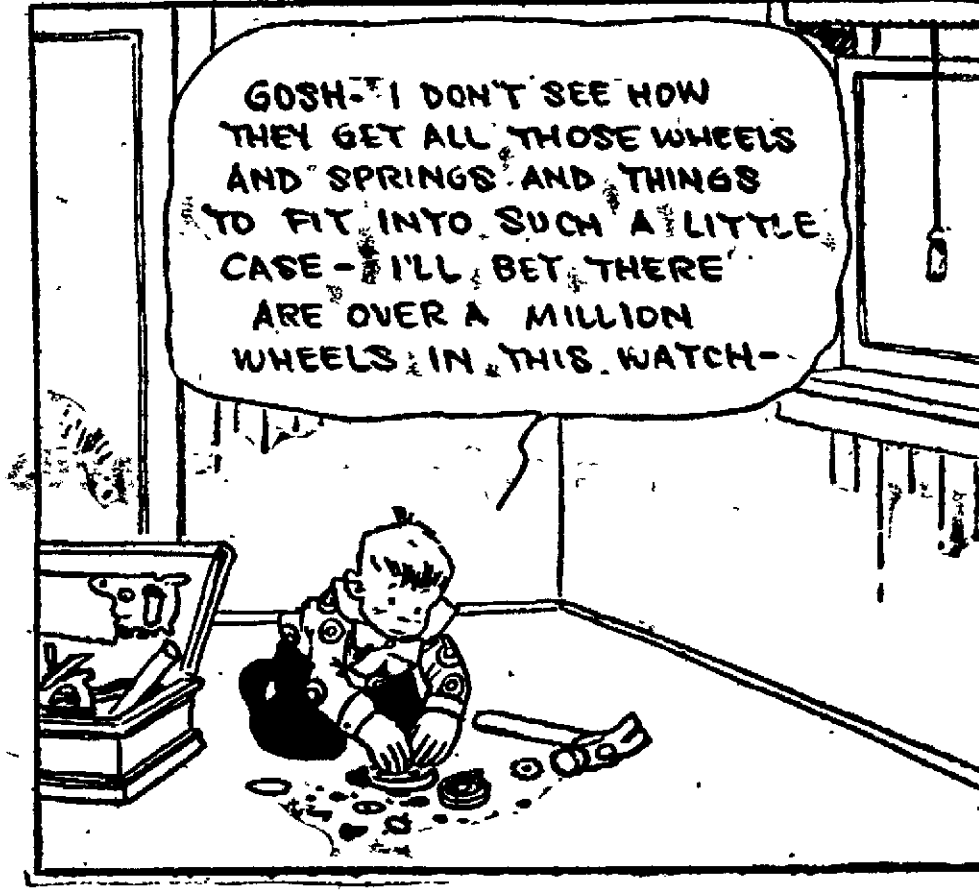

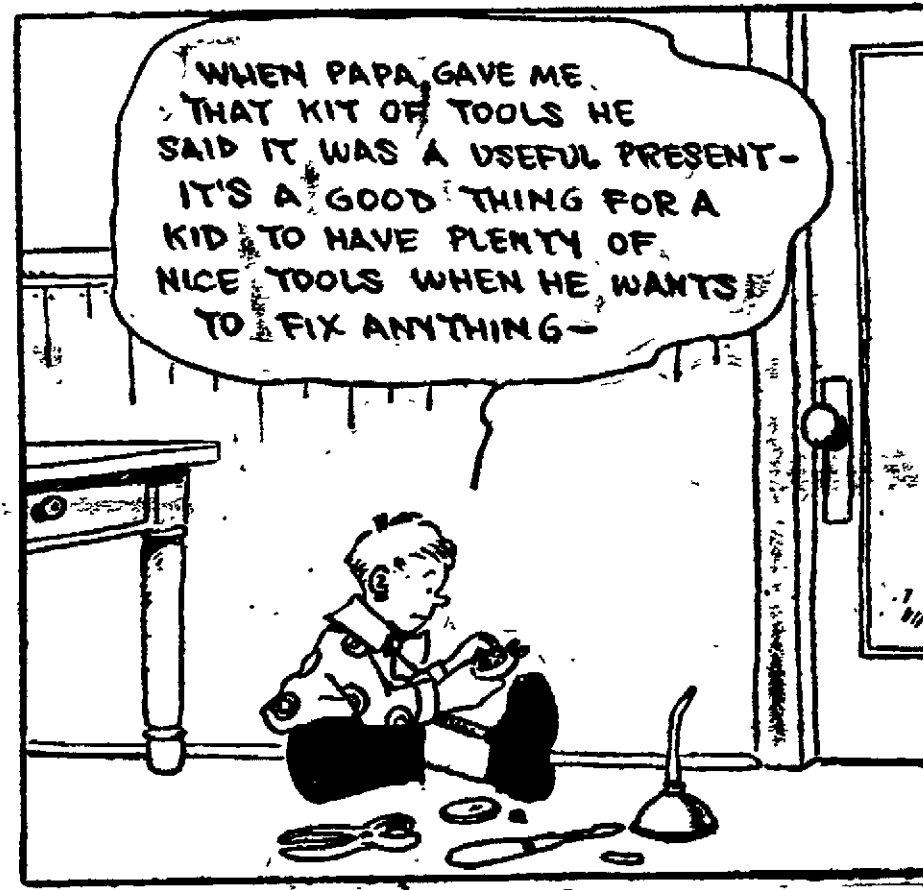

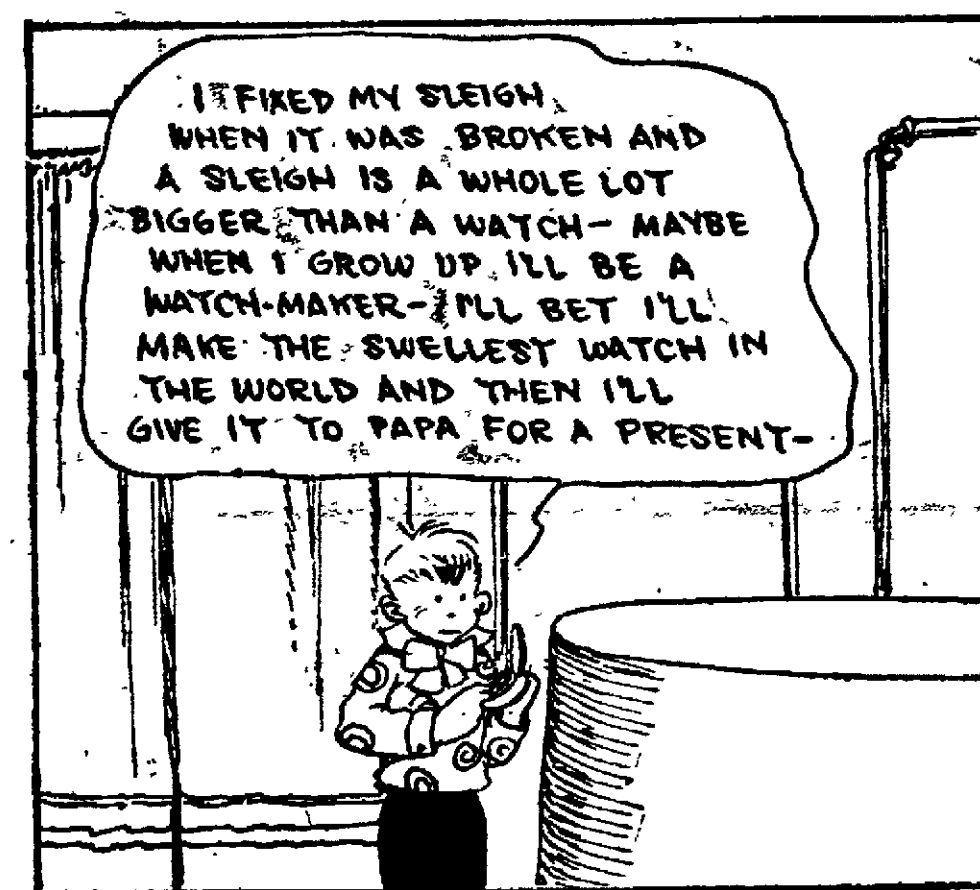

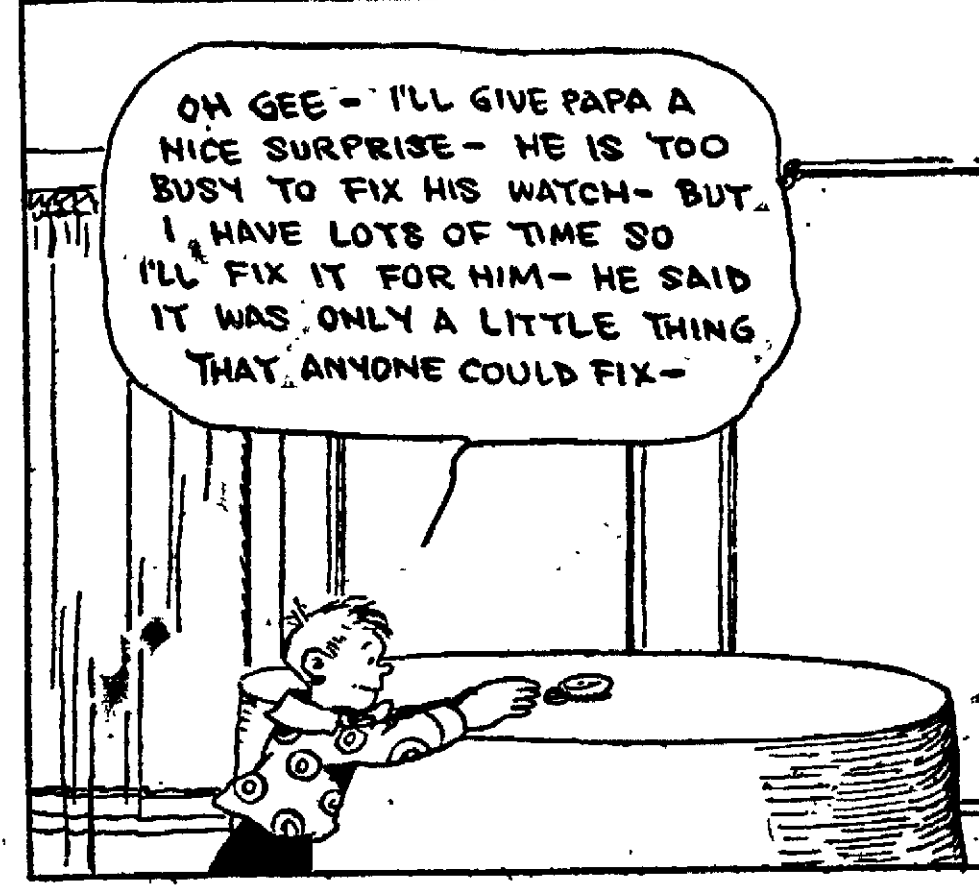

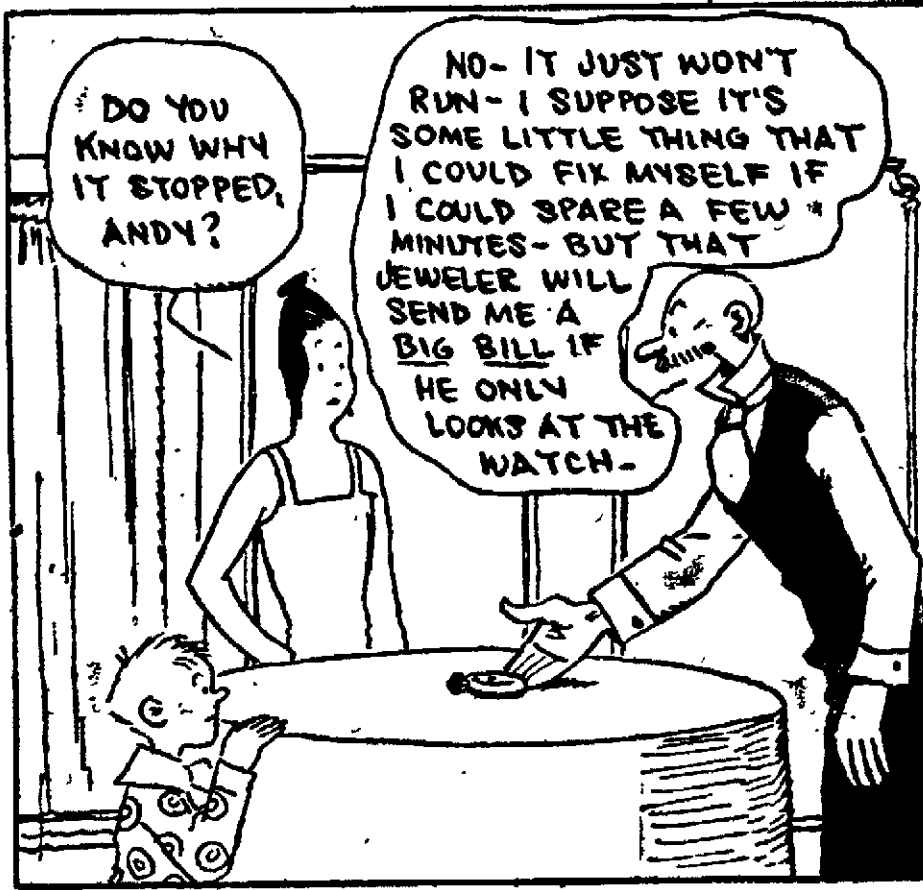

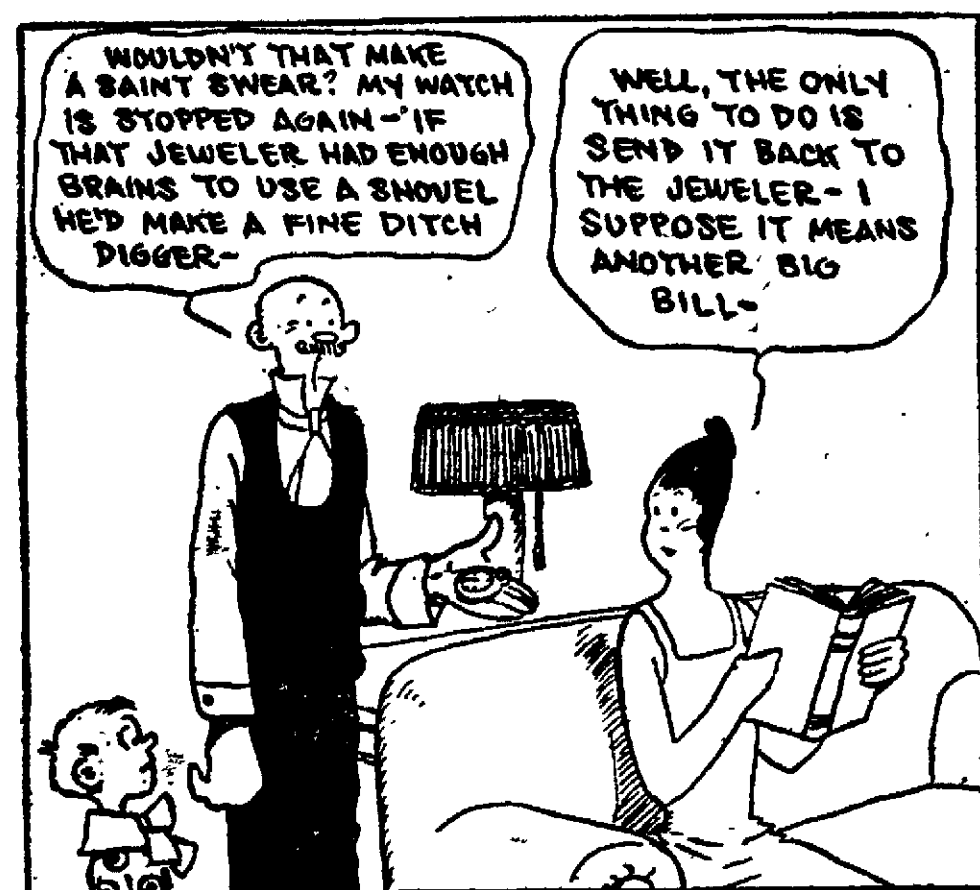

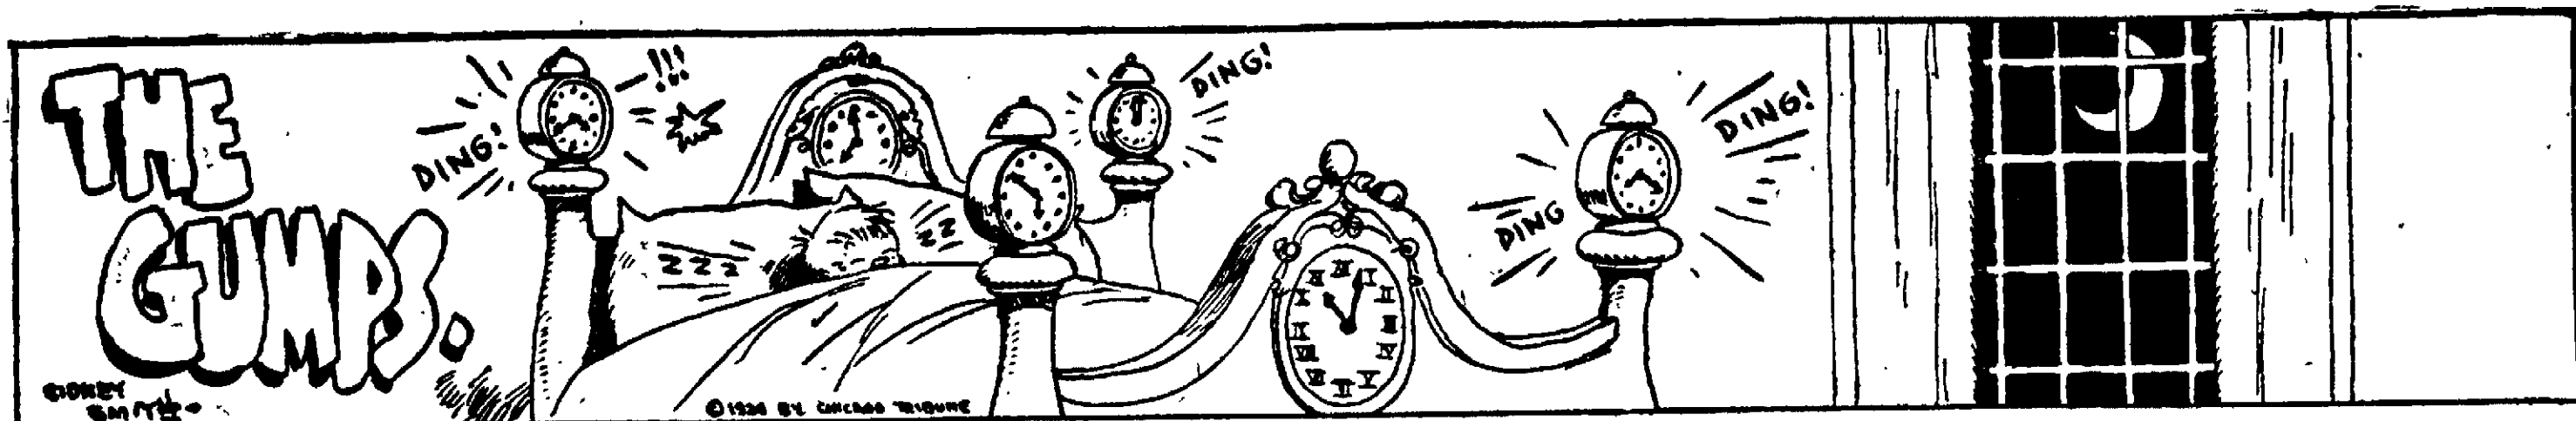

Mr. Meredith declared a canvass of the delegation had assured that at least 18 out of 30 delegates favored McAdoo and will vote for him as long as he is considered in the race.

Mr. Meredith referred to the claim of representatives of Senator Oscar Underwood who contended that Underwood will have enough votes to insure him support by this state.

RADIO DIRECTS PILOT ABOVE CLOUDS

DATON, O., April 4.—High above the clouds, out of sight of land, yet bound for a definite destination, airplane pilots in the future may thus be guided by radio.

The procedure is made through observation of recent tests conducted here with radio beacons and other instruments by which aviators were enabled to fly across country without a landmark to guide them.

Not long ago, Lieut. E. H. Barkdale and Instrument Engineer Bradley Jones, flew from McCook Field here, direct to Mitchell Field, New York, a distance of 875 miles, in less than four hours and did not see land three-fourths of the way.

Two important mechanical instruments figured in this feat. But more recently another flight was made over Dayton high above the clouds, and a system of radio signaling was responsible for the pilot's guidance.

Combination of both methods of airplane guidance above sight of land may be the outcome of further tests with both sets of instruments.

On Long Flight. The purely mechanical instruments used in the Dayton-New York flight consisted of an "earth induction compass" and an "inclinator."

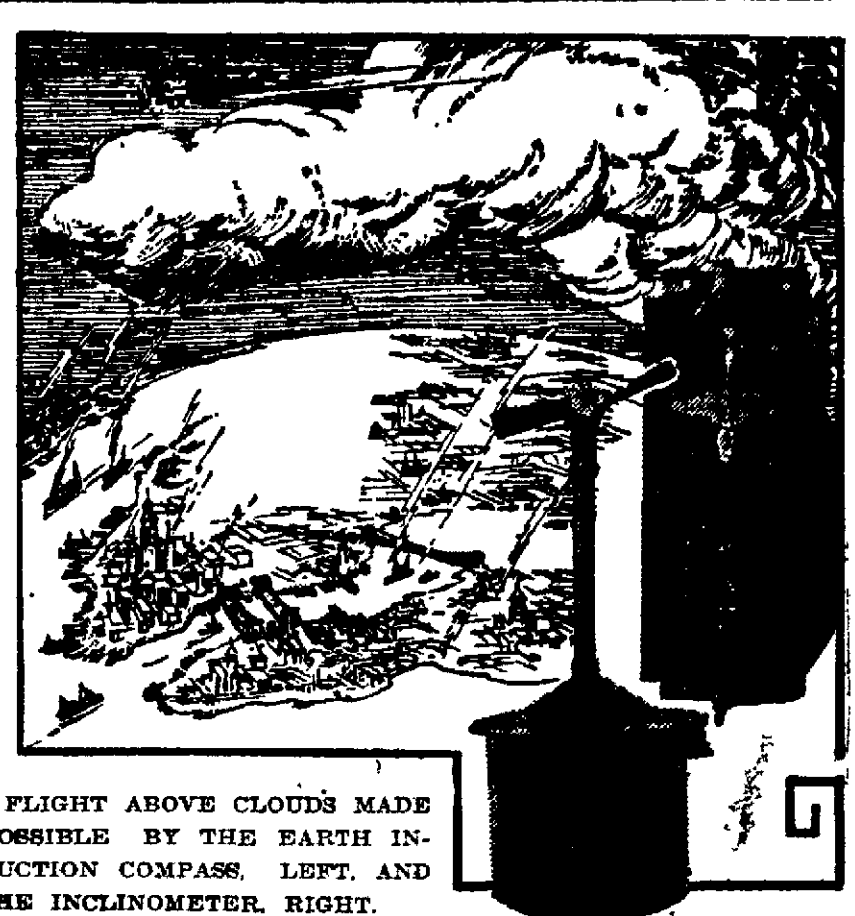

The earth induction compass is a small cylindrical affair with a propeller, which is attached to the rear of the plane to remove it from magnetic influence and which controls an indicator on the instrument board in front.

The inclinometer is "the eyes of the airplane," telling the position of the ship in straight flight, the course it takes in a bank and the fore and aft inclination of the plane.

Before he goes up, the flier's course is predetermined, the distance to destination is carefully figured, and the degrees necessary to keep the pilot on his course painstakingly calculated. All the pilot has to do is keep the compass needle at zero and watch the indicator showing the number of miles he has traveled.

When the required distance is covered, the aviator knows that he has arrived, and lands where he had planned.

Worked Accurately. "We passed through all sorts of clouds and over all kinds of ter-

As our instruments told us we were getting near New York, we watched them closely and by signaling, we both agreed at the proper time that it was time to dive down and take a look at the ground.

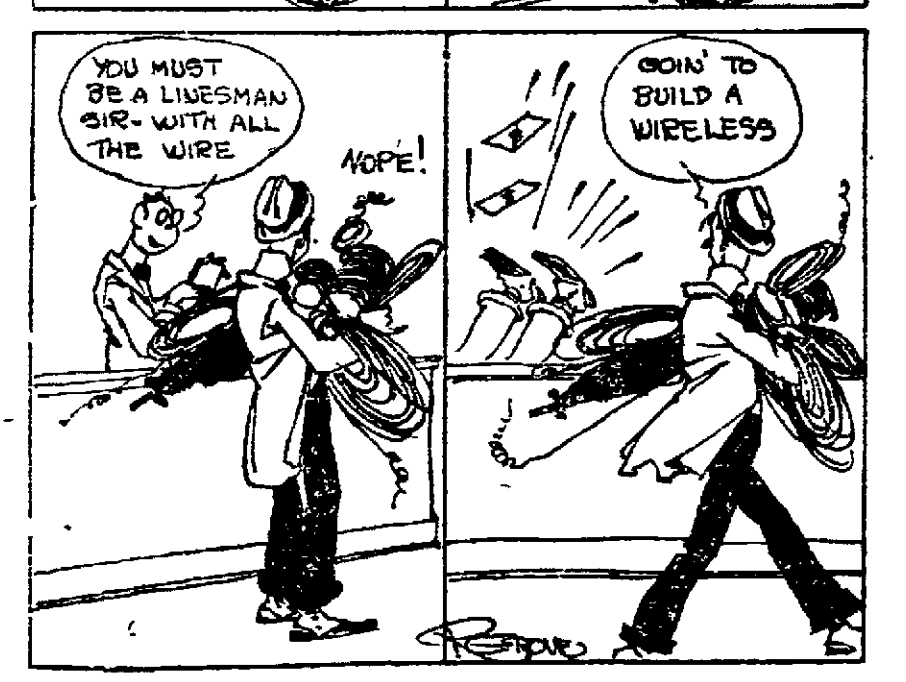

"As the plane nosed downward we began to recognize landmarks and knew that our instruments had been set correctly and that we had read them right. Closer inspection of our surroundings showed us that we had dived down right over Mitchell Field, our ultimate destination."

Signal Device. The radio beacon is another step in the same direction. By use of this instrument, the aviator receives definite signals by which he can tell whether he is running true to his course. The letter A and T were repeated over and over in the recent test flight.

As long as the aviator flew over the correct course both letters were equally loud. But as soon as he swerved off, one letter became louder than the other and by this difference he knew which way to turn to get back.

The receiving set he used was of the ordinary airplane variety. The signaling device was developed by the Bureau of Standards in cooperation with the Signal Corps and the Army Air Service.

SHORT AERIALS

Great Britain prohibits the use of long antennas for reception. Most aerials in England are 40 feet or less. As a result, radio frequency receivers are popular for reception of short wave signals.

There are 2723 American ships equipped with radio.

RADIATION PREVENTED

Two St. Louis radio engineers have invented an inexpensive device which is said to prevent re-radiation in receiving sets. It can be attached in less than a minute to the antenna, or ground, and the receiver.

A radio listener to WOC sent in a basket of peanuts as his "applause."

RADIO NOTES

GRID TROUBLE

If there is a steady knocking or ticking noise in your receiver, the grid leak hasn't the proper value. Put a finger on the grid binding post of the tube while listening. If this makes the signals louder, there is too high a resistance in the leak.

CANADIANS PAY

Radio listeners in Canada continue to pay $1 license fee for each of their receiving sets. Fees for other sets have been raised. They are $2.50 for amateur experimenters, $10 for amateur broadcasters and $10 for ship stations.

SHIPPING AIDED

Weather bulletin issued by the United States Weather Bureau are transmitted to ships in the Caribbean Sea through broadcasting station WNU, New Orleans, which re-broadcasts them on 3331 meters to Swan Island for ship transmission from there.

ANOTHER COLLEGE'ON

Another university is listed as radio broadcaster of educational entertainment. It is the University of Pittsburgh, which has begun to broadcast through station KDKA. The latest report of the Bureau of Navigation shows 95 broadcasting stations connected with universities, colleges or other schools.

BROADCASTERS ON JOB

Some broadcasters are accommodating fellows. For instance, WDAF, Chicago, acceded to a request for the Lohengrin wedding march during a recent wedding ceremony. And WJLV Cincinnati broadcast a solo for a funeral service at the request of an undertaker.

RADIO EDUCATION

The New York Board of Education has a special radio committee to take charge of the educational work of the department is doing through radio broadcasting. This committee is in charge of a program from WJZ between 2 and 2:30 each afternoon.

This Set Holds the Record

Whatever else may be said of it, there's no doubt this is a record receiving set. Miss Elma Madsen exhibited it at the New York Radio Show recently.

LESS INTERFERENCE

Radio listeners are being promised less interference from the spark transmitters of ships operating within the broadcasting wave length limits. They are getting higher wave lengths outside the broadcast area.

Railroad men around New York are appealing to the broadcasting stations to continue their programs through early morning, for their benefit.

United States army operates 112 radio stations.

THIS WILL GET 'EM

When you go out calling or bathing this summer, girls, radio will help you attract the boys. Just attach a simple little crystal receiving set to your garter—that's to make yourself all the more mysterious and elusive—put on the headphones and listen in.

They'll flock to you! They're so curious, you know.

And at the same time you'll enjoy local concerts wherever you may be. While you may favor the one you like with a chance to listen in on your garter set.

Miss Grace Dykes, of Akron, O., is showing how it's done.

SIMPLE TWO-STAGE AMPLIFIER

BY ISRAEL KLEIN

NEA Service Radio Editor

The receiving set of the future, say prominent radio engineers, will be a simple three-tube outfit—perhaps single radio and single audio frequency amplification or just double audio frequency amplification.

Therefore, the fan who plans such a receiver for his own use is certain to enjoy an outfit that will last through the various stages of change and improvement now being experienced in radio. The ultradynamic, the monophone, the phonyne and many another "dime" may come and go, but there can be little doubt about the survival of the simple three-tube receiver.

There, for the beginner, a single-tube receiver is the safest bet. Then if he wants more distant reception and use of a loud speaker, the next logical step is a two-stage amplifier. It is hardly worth while adding only one step of amplification, because it would still be ineffective for the application of a loud speaker.

Parts Required.

Hook-up diagram and layout of a typical two-stage audio amplifier are given here. Parts for the amplifier cabinet alone are:

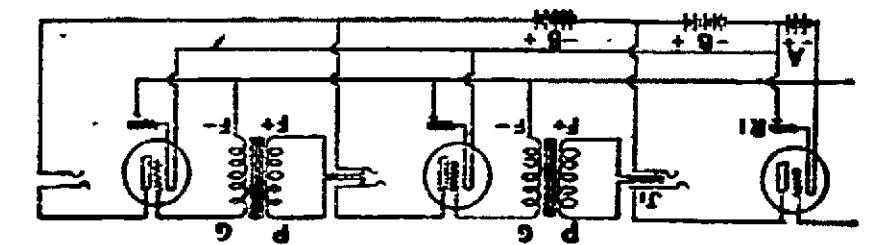

Two audio frequency transformers, low ratio, about 4:1 to 1.
Two rheostats, 20 ohms each.
Two double-circuit jacks.
One single-circuit jack.
Two binding posts.
One dielectric panel, 7 by 11 inches.

One wood base, 6 by 11 inches.
Rue connecting wires.

The single-circuit jack may be the one used with the single-tube receiver, if that arrangement has been made.

Detector Changes.

Following changes should be made in the detector circuit for the addition of the amplifier.

Double-circuit jack should be put in place of the single-circuit jack, or the two phone connections.

The two inner connections of the detector jack should be connected to the primary or the first transformer.

One of the outer connections of the detector jack goes to the plate of the detector tube. The other connection goes to the 22.5-volt tap of the B battery.

Other connections in the detector circuit remain the same.

Other Connections. A 45 volt E battery is required to take care of the amplifier tubes, both amplifier jacks being connected to the 45-volt positive end. The rheostats and negative E of the transformer secondary are connected to the positive of the A battery.

The second double-circuit jack is attached between the first and second stages of amplification. The outside connections join with the plate of the first amplifier and the positive 45-volt tap of the B battery. The inside connections go to the P and B—plus binding posts of the second transformer.

Transformers must be placed at right angles to each other. UV201-A or C201-A vacuum tubes may be used on this amplifier and a 20-ohm rheostat with each.

Tuning is accomplished just as though there were no amplifier in the detector circuit, except for the

Trexler Traded to Wilson Club For Pitcher Wilson

SLUGGING OUTFIELDER IS CEDED BACK BUT SALARY TERMS COULDN'T BE MET

Outfielder Regan Is Here and Another Pitcher Is Signed—Team Is Now Rounding Into Form.

L. G. Wilson, a member of the High school faculty, star pitcher on the Piedmont league champion team of 1923 and popularly known as "Lefty," will again wear a Danville uniform and use that steady left wing to help the champion Tobaccoists turn back opposing teams. That is to say, provided Mr. Wilson agrees to the terms by which he becomes the property of Owner Herb Murphy baselically speaking.

The three-cornered deal by means of which Wilson is secured for Owner Murphy involves the trade of outfielder Floyd Trexler of the champions, to the Wilson Club of the Virginia league, from whom Pitcher Regan is secured, while the L. G. Wilson was services was secured to Trexler's team of the Southern association. All these things happened last night. The deal was closed on receipt of a telegram from Owner Murphy after 10 o'clock last night. He had shortly before that time had title to Trexler re-ceded to him by the Birmingham management. Whether Trexler, the Babe Ruth of the Danville team and, carrying Carr Smith, the circuit-clout king of the Piedmont, will come to terms with the Wilson management or not remains for the future to disclose.

Owner Murphy said last night that he was sorry to lose the star whom Trexler, whom he liked and who he did not feel able to meet the salary terms of Trexler. This was simply and solely the consideration which impelled him to part with the slugger. Trexler is likely to be sent to the Danville team, where he will be a favorite with local crowds.

The acquisition of Wilson, whose contract was owned by the Wilson, N. C. club management will be a great consolation to the local fans in the loss of Trexler, for the professor, as the students call him, has won a warm place in the esteem of Danville people by his amiability, quiet efficiency and manliness. He was a tower of strength to the Danville team last season and won two games from Greensboro in the post-season series. In fact, his performance was almost all the teams, and showed a control rare in left-handers, while his head-work contributed to his effectiveness as a boxman. He is also a good batsman, and his timely blows have helped to win some close games.

Eddie Regan, the speed boy of the Champions, and one of the popular and likable gentlemen who have played ball in this city since the Piedmont loop began business, arrived last night from his Jersey habitat and is the same friendly and agreeable man. He has taken on a bit of fish during the off-season, but Mr. Murphy said last night "he looks good," a significant remark from a manager. With more weight Eddie is likely to hit 'em farther when he leans on one squarely. Regan will probably play the outer garden again, but he has been playing infield creditably and may, if an exigency arises, substitute on the inner defence.

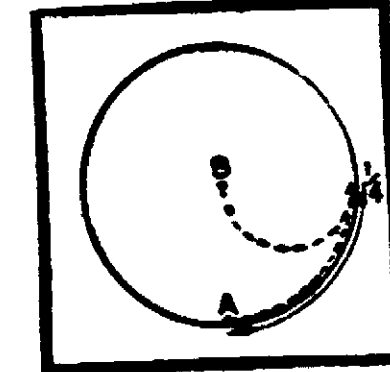

With Murphy, Harris, Resco, Wilson, Regan and possibly Cochran later on, the team is beginning to take on a striking resemblance to the bunch that won the "peanut" last year. It may be stated that there is an excellent prospect of securing the blonde-haired receiver with the rifle wing before the season opens.

Owner Murphy also announced last night the signing of Pitcher Harvey Allen, of Chicago, an experienced boxman of fine calibre. "He is not a class man," Mr. Murphy added, doubtless recalling the experience that developed near the close of the 1923 season. With Griffin and Tanner as boxmen and Harris, Wilson and Allen, the Tobaccoists will start off with considerable pitching material. If any of the new twirlers fail to show Piedmont league class in actual test, there are others who will give a chance to show their wares.

With Manager Murphy himself, Third Baseman Strupp, Second Baseman Belk and George Resco on the initial sack, the infield is shaping up nicely, while McMillan at short is also improving on his work in the initial game. The winning power of the new men will doubtless be the factor in deciding whether they remain or seek employment elsewhere.

DAILY PUZZLE

A Russian nobleman had three sons. The first, who was to become a lawyer, he named Rab. The second, who was intended as a commander of a battleship, was named Ivan. The third son was intended for a soldier. What was his name, and why?

Yesterday's answer: B caught A one-quarter of the distance around the circle from the starting point. Both went at the same rate of speed. B followed a stroke which had half the diameter of the circle A followed, and hence, caught A when he (B) had described a half circle to A's starting point. (B kept his entire circle headed toward A).

South American Boxers Reach U. S.

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, April 5.—Quindiro Romero-Rojas, Chilean heavyweight, who was groomed by Tex Rickard to take Luis Firpo's place in the boxing game, arrived yesterday with Luis Vicentini, lightweight from the same country, who made a favorable impression in a previous visit here.

Romero-Rojas has been scheduled for four fights with unnamed opponents, the first to be held May 12th, possibly with Floyd Johnson. If he wins he will be selected as the trial horse for Harry Wills during the summer, as a prelude to a Dempsey fight on Labor Day.

The new fight gun is over six feet tall and weighs 214 pounds. David Echeverria, Chilean millionaire, accompanied him as manager. Paul Gasquet, former trainer for Georges Carpentier, acts in that capacity for Romero and Vicentini.

Vicentini, who created a market by beating Johnny Shugrue last year, is matched with Pal Moran in a 12-round bout May 2nd. The winner may face Benny Leonard during the outdoor season.

Gibson Farmed Out to Asheville

Braxton Gibson, one of the mainstays of Murphy's squad last year, was sold to the Detroit club at the close of the season, has been farmed out to Asheville, the nearest city in the Sally league, where he will play the other day although Gibson had no part in the affair. Piedmont fans will follow the fortunes of the big leaver this summer as he toils in the neighborly league and everyone, Detroit included, is expecting him to set the loop on fire. In all probability if he makes a good showing with Asheville he will be recalled at the end of the season and should any of the Tiger regulars falter during the summer he may be called in before the close of the season for it is understood that Cobb was very much impressed with his work in training camp.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Dr. Emanuel Lasker, of Germany, enjoys a slight lead over his nearest rivals, Richard Reti, of Czechoslovakia and Jose Capablanca, of Cuba, in the international chess tournament which begins its fourteenth round today. No games were played yesterday.

SHIMKUS DEFEATS KILONIS IN ONE FURIOUS MAT EVENT

John Kilonis and Joe Shimkus met for the first time since their mat engagement here last year at the Municipal hall and they both gave evidence of the fact that neither had forgotten the events that took place that night when the referee was compelled to terminate the event. It was the last wrestling match of the season. Shimkus won decisions on two falls and it was quite the roughest wrestling match seen here since the mat events began last Fall. Kilonis showed himself the master of Shimkus in strategy and outright wrestling but the latter's inordinate capacity for punishment and his remarkable ability to "pull out" of tight situations were means the Greek could measure up to. As a matter of fact the final decision was not entirely on shoulder pinning. Kilonis after twenty-nine minutes of wrestling picked up Shimkus on a cross body and laid him down on the floor on his back. Shimkus was dazed and lay there flat being groggy most of the first ten minute interval. In the second encounter Shimkus secured a decision on a flying mare. He stood his lithe and agile adversary on his neck and shoulders and then bore down on him plastering his shoulders within 23 minutes. The left arm even looked as if it were broken. Kilonis' victory several times but Shimkus by sheer strength if not awkwardness withstood that punishment which comes with the headlock and which Kilonis' fondness for Shimkus ankle bone. Shimkus finally got Kilonis on his stomach and secured such a terrific leverage on the Greek's toes that the latter patted the man with an ironlock.

DANVILLE TEAM TO PLAY ROCHESTER HERE APRIL 10

The Danville baseball team, Piedmont League champs, will have their first real test on next Thursday and Friday, April 10 and 11, when they play the Rochester team of the International League, a Class AA aggregation. With two experienced pitchers and a third on the way and with a good infield and outfield line-up, the Tobaccoists are expected to present something like the team with which they won the season's championship on April 24. Unfavorable weather and the tardy arrival of some of the hold-over men of last year's crack team have combined to make it difficult to condition the team here or to develop any real team play. The local aggregation is still in such a formative or experimental state that it has had no opportunity to show its real value. The Danville team is expected to be a few more days of sunshine and mild temperature will work wonders in affording opportunity for real team play. Pitcher Allen will be here from Chicago in time for this game, and with Harris and Wilson and several try-outs available, the box-work ought to be sufficiently strong to hold the opposing team down.

D. M. I. Too Strong For Kentuck Boys

D. M. I.'s Tigers increased their chances for the season and fattened their batting averages considerably yesterday while defeating Kentucky by a heavy score. The Cadets nine was a fairly well in this, the second game of the season, having defeated Whitnell last Monday. Good luck for the visitors at extreme moments was the only thing that prevented a larger score for the cadets. Fowler and Wilkinson, cadet battery, had things well in hand, retiring only twenty-one men by the strike-out route. In fact, in only one inning did the make-up.

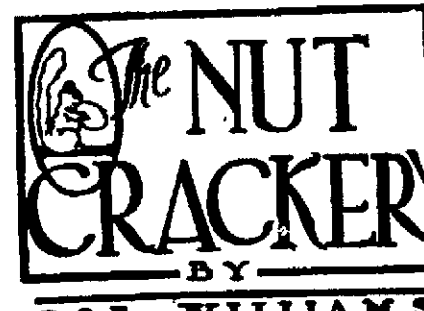

Then the visitors put across a quartet of men before the cadets settled down to business again. But the cadet nine, when on the hop again took their visitors in three hits and three runs. Bernstein, twirler of last Monday's game, was on third and gave a good account of himself from the hot corner, while the outfielders worked in an entirely satisfactory manner. R. Gravelly, Cox and Allen in the outer garden seemed somewhat handicapped by the condition of the field. To this condition may be attributed the aid in the visitors' score-getting.

A bat for the cadets R. Gravelly, Wilkinson and Cowan won equal honors, garnering each three hits and three runs. Fowler, batting last, hit a home run to Wilkinson, who pasted the pill for a three-bagger the first time up and proved troublesome for the visiting battery throughout the remainder of the game, while between times he caught a strong game.

For the visitors, Davis and Bennett in center and right field, respectively, proved most effective with the yellow, getting two hits each while Richardson, pitching, played the best all-around game. The diamond, in fairly good shape at the beginning, but considerably dampened by the rain which was falling, did not seem to dampen the spirits of either team. Fighting rapped from start to finish, the Cadets used a number of substitutes in the closing innings: O. Biggs, Burnette, J. Gravelly, Hook, Klein and White.

Score by Innings:
D. M. I. 263 400 000—14 19 1
D. H. S. 000 400 000—4 6 6
Batteries: D. M. I., Fowler and Wilkinson; Kentucky Richardson and E. Barkedale. Umpire Rustin.

FINALISTS ARE NAME
NEW YORK, April 5.—Finalists in the singles and doubles for the national indoor tennis championship today are the same as last year. Vincent Richards defends his singles title against Francis T. Hunter. As doubles champions, Richards and Hunter meet Frank T. Anderson and S. Howard Vashell yesterday by defeating Percy L. Kinsman, who Hunter took out Anderson. The doubles champion won from Dr. George King and C. C. Condit, who Vashell and Vashell beat Kenneth Appel and John Van Ryan.

THE DIARY OF MR. SIKI

NEW YORK, April 5.—I am showing with courtesies by the jolly Americans just as my friends predicted, only in France we call them brickbats and tomato cans.

JERSEY CITY—I am honored guest at an indoor football game in the Bon Ton Cafe. I am, in some mysterious fashion, mistaken for the football and kicked over the swinging doors into the street, amid much gawfing. These Americans have a quaint sense of humor.

PITTSBURGH—I look upon the wine when it is red and am invited to take the air by the tavern keeper. I protest, not being interested in aerobics and presently am initiated in a rollicking sort of game called the Bum's Rush.

CINCINNATI—I am persuaded to visit the zoo, but find the collection of so-called rare animals utterly uninteresting. Not a purple camel or a four-headed python in the lot.

MONTREAL—I am given special escort by distinguished looking gents wearing blue uniforms with brass insignia, who take turns in breaking short black clubs over my head, a time-honored ritual reserved, I hear, only for notables of the first water.

Afterthought: First water G-r-r-r!

NEW ORLEANS—I am interrupted in the course of an important talk on my greatness as an artist of the clothes by a flying table, the northwest corner of which dislodged five gold teeth from the lower row. It is strange, the power of these spirit-units.

BOSTON—I lament to a gentleman of the press that I get very little credit in this country, and he agrees, saying, "You deserve it."

CLEVELAND—I have an uneventful day. I am not thrown out of any place nor into any jail, nor am I trapped to my bed and little yellow mocking birds with long flowing whiskers twitter quite merrily in the chandeliers.

HAVANA—I am soaked back of the head by large brown sugar creek and am flattered at the recognition thus bestowed upon me, though somewhat bewildered at being compelled to pay the damages.

The average number of days at school is 143 in country schools 56 at football and hockey.

WITH THE MAJORS ON THEIR EXHIBITION TOUR

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, April 5.—Two recruits pluckers go to the Virginia League with strings attached, from the New York Yankee staff today. Fred Newberry was released to Richmond and Bernice Thompson to Norfolk. Both are expected to be recalled for another trial next year.

Pinkie Haines, former Penn State football star, who is on the outfield roster of the world's champions, is said to be slated for departure within a few days. Of the three new pitchers who remain with the team—Gaston, Shields and Oles—two will be turned aside later, it is reported.

While the Giants and Yankees were idle because of wet grounds, Brooklyn broke its losing streak with a 10-8 victory over Reading at Albany, Ga., yesterday.

PITCHER CADORE PASSES OUT OF BIG TIME BALL

(By The Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, April 5.—Leon Cadore, veteran righthander, who came to the Chicago Americans last year after a long tour in the National League, has passed out of the big time. His arm refused to respond to treatment this spring and he was released to the Vernon, Pacific Coast League club yesterday. Cadore never was himself after pitching a twenty-two inning 1 to 1 tie against Joe Oeschger in 1920.

The Sox were idle at Birmingham yesterday while it rained. The Chicago Nationals played with the Amarillo Texas High School nine yesterday, a ponderous youth called "T-Bone" Dowler providing the chief spectacle by striking out three of the major leaguers, Grigsby, Churry and Blake. In order, the Cub pitcher looped the ball to the plate after the fourth inning. Score 11-0.

RAIN PREVENTS GAME

(By The Associated Press.)
CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 5.—After wet grounds caused a cancellation of an exhibition game between the Cleveland Indians and New Orleans Southern Association team yesterday, Manager Tris Speaker sent his charges through a program of running, throwing and medicine ball tossing. The same teams were scheduled to play at New Orleans today.

CINCINNATI TO TRAIN IN ORLANDO NEXT YEAR

(By The Associated Press.)
CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 5.—At the conclusion of the Cincinnati Nationals spring training practice at Orlando, Fla., President Herrman stated that the team surely would return to that city for training next year. The club is trying to purchase Tinker Field for use as a permanent training camp, but so far has not come to terms with the present owners.

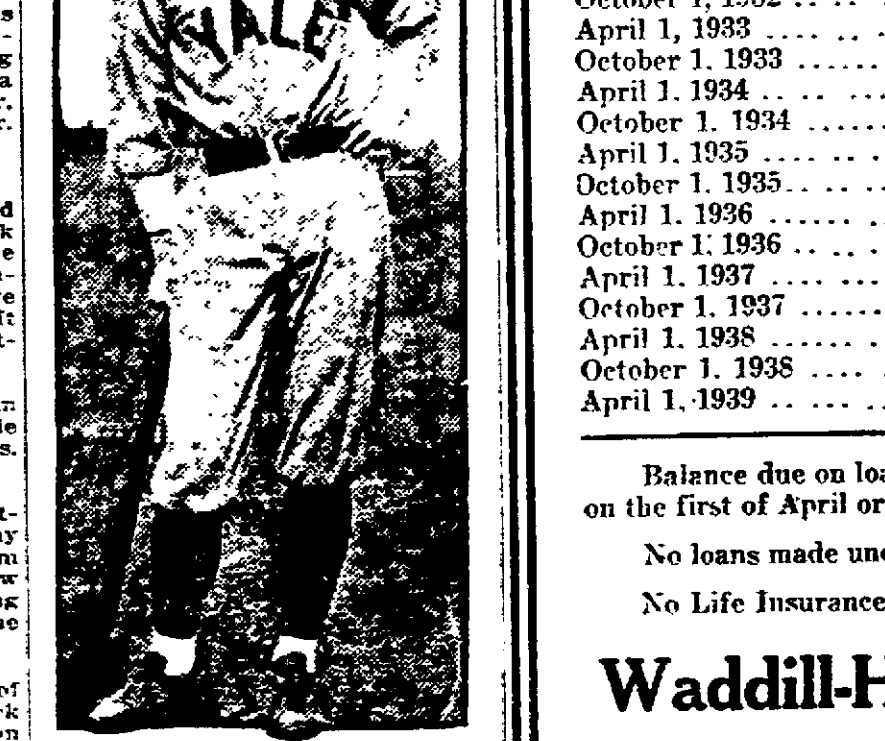

The team started its homeward trip this morning, stopping at Daytona, this afternoon for a game with the Florida State League team there. Manager Jack Hendricks said all of his pitchers were inviolably perfect in action, with the exception of Eppa Rixey, who has had no practice for two weeks on account of a sore knee.

WALTER JOHNSON WILL OPER SEASON FOR SENATORS

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, April 5.—Walter Johnson, dean of American League pitchers, was the hurling selection for Washington's final training exhibition on Florida soil with the Boston Braves, today at St. Petersburg. It also was the speed ball kings last appearance in the line-up prior to the opening of the pennant race here April 15th, when he is slated ten.

For the Game's Sake

By LAWRENCE PERRY

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
NEW YORK, April 5.—Announcement is made by C. W. Street, Jr., of Birmingham, Ala., chairman of the American Olympic wrestling committee, that a wise change will be made this year in the selection of members of our overseas wrestling team.

The country has been divided into twenty sections and no man will be permitted to enter the final tryouts in the Madison Square Garden on May 12, who has not won a first or second place in the sectional tryouts. At least, this is the present indication.

Unquestionable this will be an improvement over the 1920 method, wherein no sectional tryouts were held and any wrestler was eligible to enter the finals in this city. The consequence was that the really capable wrestlers were tired out before they came through. Under the new scheme the athletes will virtually pick themselves through an elimination process.

Speaking of olympic trials as the outdoor track season draws near, interest in the relative speed of Loren Murchison and Charles Paddock in the hundred yard dash increases day by day. Eastern track experts hold that Paddock's unscientific method of starting will place him at great disadvantage in competition with Mutchison's lightning getaway and that while Paddock unquestionably gathers tremendous speed after he has started, Murchison does too, so that the Newark flyer is likely, as in past tests ever the hundred against the Californian, to hold what he gains at the gun.

More and more, former Notre Dame stars of the gridiron are carrying the Rockne gospel abroad. The latest coup in this respect goes to the credit of the University of Georgia, which has secured Harry Mehre, center at South Bend in '19, '20, '21, as line coach. Georgia Tech take notice. All Bill Alexander needs is a thorough going line instructor.

Iron-Man Stunt to Be Passed Up By Ray Schalk

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 5.—Ray Schalk's day as an Iron-Man catcher is ended.

The White Sox star who holds the major league record for consecutive games caught does not plan to catch more than 70 or 80 games this season.

Last year Schalk caught 121 games. He is no longer a youngster and the continuous service took much out of him.

This year he will come close to dividing the burden with Clyde Crouse who finished the season with the club last year.

A newcomer, Joe Burns, from Shreveport, developed by Ira Thomas is well thought of and will break into a number of games back of the plate himself.

WOMAN NAMED PRINCIPAL

(By The Associated Press.)
RICHMOND, Va., April 5.—Miss Louisa C. Berniers Baot, of Charleston, S. C., now occupying a position with the Brearly School, New York City, has been elected principal of St. Catherine's school, West Hampton, on the board, succeeding Mrs. James Ball, who resigned in January.

WEATHER FORECAST

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, April 5.—Virginia: Cloudy and somewhat unsettled tonight and Sunday; little change in temperature.

North Carolina: Cloudy and unsettled tonight and Sunday; probably showers or the coast tonight. Little change in temperature.

TWO HEARINGS LOST IN MANY PROBES NOW ON

When Will Bok Peace and Russian Committees Meet, Asked.

By WILLIAM C. LYON.
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee.)
WASHINGTON, April 4.—In the whirlpool of congressional investigations now playing hide and seek in the halls of congress, two hearings have been completely lost.

They were perfectly good hearings and had a big "gallery" when they were going good. Teapot Dome, just plain disinterestedness broke up the other. The first was the Borah committee investigating Russian propaganda under a resolution to recognize the Soviet government. The second was the investigation of propaganda in connection with the Bok peace plan.

It took two guards at the committee room door to handle the spectators who were flocking in to the Russian hearing back in January. Senator Lenroot, who was a member of the committee also was chairman of the sub-committee that was hearing the Teapot Dome testimony. In those days Teapot Dome was not creating much excitement and Lenroot was a fairly regular attendant at the Russian hearing.

"Bill" Burns was a regular daily spectator and with him were a number of his operatives from the department of the bureau of investigation. They were in close consultation with the representatives of the State Department who were laying before the committee endless files of correspondence intended to prove that Russian propagandists in the United States were planning to "take the bag" on the White House. Teapot Dome bubbled over Burns' bureau and Burns promptly lost interest in Russia and Bolsheviks and such, trivial things.

Then Senator Walsh took his little jaunt down to Florida and commenced collecting the names of the people who were supposed to have advanced that $100,000 to Ex-Secretary Fall and Teapot Dome began to boil. Senator Lenroot turned his attention to the Teapot Dome case and no more was on hand with the Russian probers. The crowds that had been listening to Russia's woes fell off and Senator Borah announced he would await a more propitious time to continue that hearing.

Later on Senator Lenroot resigned from the Teapot Dome committee, but he has been ill most of the time since and everyone has forgot there was a Russian hearing. Senator Borah now says that some time he may be able to get attention to the Russian affair, but he does not say it very hopefully.

"Members of the Gallery" who were getting some real thrills out of the Bok plan hearings have begun to ask, in light of the recent indictment and citations of witnesses before the Daugherty committee, what became of the fine prospects for similar action by the Moses committee against Edward Bok and Miss Esther Lape, secretary of the Bok Plan organization. The last seen of that, at the time, exciting hearing was a wordy battle between Senators Moses and Cavanaugh over the pertinence or impertinence of Miss Lape's refusal to answer questions as the chairman insisted they be answered.

Senator Moses, when he adjourned the committee back there in January merely said the hearing might resume when there was not so much case going on. But most everyone will admit that that time hasn't arrived yet.

Mrs. Alexander Miller spent the last week-end visiting friends in Bedford City.

Miss Irene Goode, of Critz was the guest of friends here last Saturday and Sunday.

The girls' and boys' basketball teams of Rocky Mount played the Stuart teams here last Saturday night. Both visiting teams were winners, the girls 19 to 18 and the boys 15 to 13.

W. H. Clark, one of Stuart's most prominent citizens, died at his home here Tuesday night. He had been a sufferer from rheumatism for a number of years, and for the past two weeks his condition had been acute. His remains were laid to rest in the Clark plot at the New Hope Methodist church cemetery, seven miles south of town, Thursday afternoon, where a short funeral service was conducted by his pastor, the Rev. J. R. Douglas, pastor of Stuart's Methodist church.

The REFEREE

BY ALBERT APPLE.

HORRIBLE

Congress contemplates installing a radio broadcasting station to send its speeches to all corners of the country. Senator Howell introduced a resolution for a committee to investigate the cost.

Inasmuch as the scheme starts on the "investigation" basis, it probably will not get very far. But if Congress ever does broadcast the stuff printed in the Congressional Record, we recommend view of the average receiving set used by radio bugs, that Congress be assigned a wavelength of 10,000 meters.

PROPHETCY

All autos will be equipped with radio telephones within five years. This is the prediction by Hiram P. Maxim, president of American Radio Realty League.

He estimates that amateur radio fans in our country have already spent 200 million dollars for sets. That's only a start. The radio market, properly stimulated by invention, has a plume of millions of dollars of sales in sight. Such a stimulus will rapidly develop radio from an entertaining toy into a practical everyday device as indispensable as the auto or wired phone.

IMMUNE

Prof. Guyer inoculates several generations of rabbits with typhoid fever. This develops something in the rabbits' blood that makes their descendants immune to typhoid.

The importance of this is that "hereditary immunity to disease" may become possible. If the method can be applied to people, many diseases might be gotten under control in a few generations.

CRIMES

Hundreds of new crimes were created last year, reports a committee of the lawyers' association. This means that hundreds of offenses, formerly countenanced as all right, have been legally branded as crimes. For instance, Connecticut has a new law making it a punishable offense to display a clock showing any except standard time.

The taboo list is growing. Liquor is not the only kind of prohibition. Of course, if all old laws were en-session of the Superior Court there.

Dr. L. C. Dickerson is a patient at St. Martin's hospital here, having gone there last week for treatment for boils on his neck.

Miss Ola Mitchell, of Franklin county, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. G. Hylton, this week.

Miss Louise McNeil is visiting her friend, Mrs. Lily Marshall, at Apton, this week.

John DeWitt Hooker, of Chatham Training School, spent last week-end with his friend, John Davis Taylor, here.

R. P. Sanford, a prominent young attorney here, was elected mayor of Stuart last week, following the resignation of Mayor E. C. Smith. Mr. Sanford is a splendid young man with marked legal ability and a judicial temperament, and his friends predict that he will make an excellent official.

Two new anesthetics, acetylene and ethylene, are said to induce anesthesia without preliminary discomfort and with rapid recovery afterward.
